Demonstration Comes After Terrorist Attack Kills Two

ORAN, ALGERIA (AP) — Hundreds of Moslems today broke windows and smashed cars parked near the prison where two Moslem convicts were killed and 30 injured in a Secret Army fire raid.

The demonstration began when about 400 Moslems surged toward the prison screaming nationalist slogans and shaking their fists in protest against the prison killings.

The Moslems were met by steel-helmeted riot police, who checked them without bloodshed.

Reds Suffer Heavy Losses In Viet Nam

Over 100 Viet Cong Guerrillas Killed, Many More Captured

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese forces using decisive firepower scored two major victories over the Communist Viet Cong in the past two days, killing more than 100 Red guerrillas and wounding or capturing hundreds more, officials of President Ngo Dinh Diem's government said today.

U.S. Army helicopters with American crews supported the followup of one operation and U.S.-supplied fighter bombers provided the knockout punch for the other, the officials said.

The reported military successes are understood to be South Viet Nam's biggest of the year. They followed closely on three straight setbacks for Diem's pro-Western government.

Heavy Toll for Reds
Government ground forces following up a strike by the South Viet Nam air force in Phuoc Thanh Province found 60 Viet Cong bodies Monday. They estimated at least 230 more Communist guerrillas were wounded in the attack by the single-engine propeller planes Sunday.

Phuoc Thanh and parts of surrounding provinces are classified by the Communists as a liberated area long under free of government control.

Bands of young Moslems came through adjoining streets smashing windows and damaging parked cars with rocks, pipes and iron bars.

Europeans Protected

Police threw a cordon around the entire area to keep Europeans out for their own safety and to prevent clashes with the hot-tempered Moslem mob.

No injuries were reported among the Moslems.

After an hour or two of demonstration, the crowd broke up into

Patrols Recover All 111 Bodies At Crash Site

DOUALA, Cameroon (AP) — Jungle patrols today completed the recovery of 111 bodies from the swamp surrounding the wreckage of the chartered British airliner that crashed here Sunday night.

Few of the 111 victims could be identified immediately. It was 24 hours before many of the bodies could be found and pulled from the crocodile-infested jungle swamp a mile and a quarter from Douala Airport.

The Europe-bound plane crashed less than two minutes after taking off from Douala, plummeting into thick foliage and breaking up on impact. The 101 passengers and 10 crew members apparently were killed almost instantly.

The four-engine DC7C, a propeller-driven plane, was leased from Sabena, the Belgian airline, by Caledonian Airways of Prestwick, Scotland. It was on a low-rate flight from South Africa to Europe and most of those aboard were vacationers. They included 42 Britons, 40 South Africans and some Austrians, Danes, Dutch, Germans, Irish and Italians.

'Avoid Sterile Propaganda, Kennedy Tells Khrushchev

Nikita Explains Food Shortage In Soviet Union

Russian Leader Hits Poor Management of Collectivized Farms

MOSCOW (AP) — Radio announcers today began reading Soviet Premier Khrushchev's six-hour speech telling the people what they already knew—the Soviet Union is short of food, especially meat.

Khrushchev warned the Communist party Central Committee Monday that poor management of collective farms has seriously jeopardized the seven-year agricultural plan.

Blames Williams

Khrushchev blamed a long-dead Soviet agricultural scientist with a name from British ancestors, Vasily Williams, for wrong methods long followed.

It was Williams, he said, who stood at the elbow of Stalin and led him to adopt a system of grass crop rotation which keeps a large part of the land each year in grass to restore its fertility. Williams died in 1939.

To cope with the resulting food shortage now plaguing a growing Soviet population, Khrushchev said about a third of the 150 million acres now in grass will be plowed up and planted in corn, sugar beets and legumes to supply more food and more feed for livestock.

Debate Begins

Seven pages of every major morning paper were given over to the Khrushchev speech. It was piped into the main room of practically every home in the land, through loudspeakers that are considered as much a part of the dwelling as the front window.

The Central Committee today took up the Khrushchev report

3 Crewmen Killed In B58 Accident

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A B58 jet bomber crashed and exploded here Monday night while fellow airmen still cheered the cross-country speed records set a few hours earlier by another B58 of the 43rd Bomb Wing.

All three crewmen were killed.

"It looked like an A-bomb," said Leonard Sanders, a Fort Worth

Star-Telegram copy editor who was at a drive-in theater close by.

"The sky lit up behind the movie screen and a huge cloud of smoke rose almost immediately."

U2 Pilot Lived Up to 'His Obligation as an American'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency reported today that U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers lived up to the terms of his employment and "his obligations as an American."

The House Armed Services Committee made public the report on the case of the pilot whose photographic reconnaissance plane came down deep within Russia in May, 1960.

Based on an exhaustive investi-

sory board, the report cleared Powers of yielding under pressure to tell more than he was authorized to say to his captors.

Co-operative Attitude

The intelligence agency said that Powers and other U2 pilots were authorized to "surrender without resistance and adopt a co-operative attitude toward their captors."

They are:

1 He disagrees with both the Western and the Soviet approaches to preventing nuclear war, based as they are on a test ban. He favors instead the destruction of delivery "vehicles."

FCC Plan Under Fire

'Deintermixture' of VHF Channels Has Minow in Argument

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Communications Chief Newton Minow, no stranger to controversy, is likely to find himself in a new hornet's nest today in trying to explain an FCC proposal with the unwieldy name of deintermixture.

Twenty-two congressmen asked to be heard Monday when the House Commerce Committee opened hearings on the proposal, which would have the effect of eliminating VHF television channels in eight cities in order to stimulate the development of UHF stations.

To a man, they were opposed.

Rep. Horace Secly Brown, R-Conn., said the proposal "bears a shocking resemblance to harassment."

One of the VHF stations involved is in Hartford.

Minow and other FCC commissioners are among witnesses scheduled to testify today.

The burden of Monday's testimony was that UHF reception is inferior to VHF.

Solar Satellite Launching Canceled

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Technical problems forced postponement today of an attempt to launch a solar observatory into orbit to study earth-sun relations.

The countdown on the Thor-Delta booster rocket had progressed to within a few seconds of the scheduled launch time when the trouble developed. No new launching date was set.

President's Note Contains Formula for Success at Geneva Test Ban Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy told Soviet Premier Khrushchev today that the purpose of the great powers now in approaching negotiations at Geneva must be to avoid "sterile exchanges of propaganda" and "make real progress toward disarmament."

Kennedy welcomed Khrushchev's decision to send Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to meet with U.S. and British foreign ministers at Geneva in advance of the March 14 disarmament conference. The President suggested March 12—next Monday—as the starting date for three-power talks.

Kennedy, meanwhile, arranged to meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and other diplomatic, military and atomic advisers, at 5 p.m. today to talk about U.S. disarmament policy. Rusk is expected to leave Washington Saturday for Geneva.

Lengthy Note

The White House announced those at the meeting will include, in addition to the President and Rusk, William Foster, disarmament director, and Adrian Fisher, deputy director; Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara; and Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, director of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Kennedy Gets Bitter Attack From Nikita

U. S. Nuclear Test Plan Assailed as 'Atomic Blackmail'

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev has told President Kennedy his proposal to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere is "atomic blackmail."

He indicated new U.S. tests would virtually torpedo the forthcoming Geneva disarmament conference.

This was disclosed today with publication of a letter to Kennedy dated March 3. The premier assailed the U.S. plan for resuming testing unless the Soviets agree by April to a treaty banning tests with iron clad controls to prevent cheating.

Reluctant Agreement

Publication came as U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson delivered a letter from Kennedy to Khrushchev to set the stage for a foreign ministers meeting at Geneva on nuclear tests and disarmament.

In his letter, Khrushchev reluctantly agreed to a meeting at the foreign ministers' level after failing in his bid to get a summit meeting at Geneva.

But in some of his sharpest language in recent months, Khrushchev implied that the resumption of America's nuclear testing practically doomed the disarmament talks, scheduled to open March 14.

Khrushchev appeared to have accepted defeat in the face of Western resistance to his plan for beginning the Geneva negotiations at the heads of government level.

Bitter Attack

Khrushchev, however, insisted that his plan for chief executive meetings was still a better idea.

The latter part of Khrushchev's message was devoted to a bitter attack on Kennedy's announcement.

Non-Inflationary Contract Expected

Administration Officials Confident There Will be No 1962 Steel Strike

BY EDWIN A. LAHEY

Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — High administration officials are still confident that the steel industry and the Steelworkers' Union will write a non-inflationary contract for 1962 without a strike.

"They were all tired out over in Pittsburgh," said one of President Kennedy's closest advisers. "It's better to let them relax a little bit."

Sources close to the White House believe that Mr. Kennedy and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg in a few days will urge the joint bargaining committees to resume the negotiations that bogged down in a stalemate last Friday night.

Respectable Package

At the time the negotiations broke up, one source said, "There wasn't enough money on the table to make a respectable package for the union to report to the members."

The White House advisers are also confident that a panic buying spree will be averted among steel consumers. One highly placed official said he felt that business leaders are aware of President Kennedy's determination to get through the year without a steel strike. The business community has reflected its confidence in the President and the secretary of labor by abating its own inventory buying spree, this official said.

There is always the possibility that the taxpayers could underwrite the increased employment costs the steel industry would credit for new investment, a proposal now about to be reported to Congress by the House Ways and Means Committee.

This 8 per cent tax credit would

Britain, U.S. Trying To Agree on Tests

Allies Have Differences on How to Propose Nuclear Ban When Meeting at Geneva Opens

Chicago Daily News Service
LONDON — Reports from Washington printed in the British press make it clear that the United States and Britain are in disagreement about how far to go in trying to win Russian acceptance of a treaty banning nuclear tests.
Agreement on such a treaty appears to be essential to the success of the 18-nation disarmament conference that starts in Geneva March 14.
It also appears to be the only condition in which the United States and Britain will agree to attend a summit conference this spring.

First Things
Consequently it is one of the first things that will have to be considered when the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and Russia hold a three-power confab early next week: just before the disarmament conference opens.
Key of the whole problem is the question of how to exercise international control to insure that the treaty is observed by all three parties. Inside this question is the question of how to check underground explosions, which the Americans feel may easily escape detection by any existing means.

Provide Checks
As the position now stands both the British and the Americans have changed their views. The United States says its own recent experience has proven that there must be more insistence rather than less insistence on an adequate number of on site inspections to investigate suspected underground explosions.
It also insists that the proposed treaty must provide for some check on preparations for the holding of nuclear tests such as those held by the Russians in 1961.

The British, on the other hand, contend that improved detection devices make it possible for the Western Powers to rely more than they previously had believed possible on instruments located outside Soviet territory.
So Britain, at least, is ready to water down the draft treaty agreed upon with the Americans in 1961.

Ladies Day
Is Hot Time At Mardi Gras

Chicago Daily News Service
BONN — The period just before Lent is carnival time in this strongly Catholic part of Germany. And one feature of the carnival here is "ladies' day."
On "ladies' day" it's more than a man's dignity is worth to go anywhere near the market place. Men have been known to have been dragged trousersless into nearby hostels and made to buy any drink the "ladies" wanted.
The more conservative of the women book themselves on "secret" but tours. The destination is known only by the driver and away they go wearing funny hats and blowing kisses to all men in sight.
On one of the most recent of these tours, the driver bringing home his load of slightly inebriated females found himself caught up in a police hunt for a burglar. Had that burglar been caught he would have been lynched. Men are not supposed to do such things on "ladies' day."
Another driver, returning to his bus after a short interval, saw it slowly moving away. One of his unsteady customers had always wanted to drive a bus. When she was removed from the driver's seat her friends, far from being scared, cheered wildly.
The driver discovered she had been driving with the brake on.

Sons Killed Rushing to Deathbed of Their Father

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"You've got to keep me alive until I can see my children," Hyman Levintal told his doctors.
But a few minutes later he was dead, never knowing that three of his sons were among 96 killed in the jet airliner crash in New York last Thursday.
The three sons tried to fly to their stricken father because the one-time immigrant tailor and his wife, Rose, 67, had brought up their children to believe a family sticks together.
Hyman, 71, and his wife, struggled through hard times for years in New York City, raising their six children, saving enough money to retire in California.
Warm Climate
Two years ago they left for Los Angeles, seeking a warm climate to help a heart ailment Hyman developed in his years of toil.
A son and daughter came with them. Three sons remained in the east to tend to their businesses—

Plane Breaks Records, but Shatters Panes

Air Force B58 Makes Cross-Country Flight in 2 Hours

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An Air Force B58 bomber has broken three transcontinental speed records, uncounted dozens of windows and the tranquility of citizens along a 40-mile corridor from coast to coast.

The 1,300-m.p.h. jet made the trip Monday from Los Angeles to New York in 2 hours, 1 minute, took 26-plus minutes to turn around and refuel over the Atlantic, and streaked back here in 2 hours, 15 minutes.
Total elapsed time for the 4,900-mile, non-stop round trip: 4 hours, 42 minutes, 32 seconds.

Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command, told newsmen the flight "should impress any potential aggressors with the idea that we have a choice of weapons to win a decisive victory in the event that war is forced upon us."

Who'll Pay?
He was less direct when asked who was going to pay for the windows broken by the sonic boom that trailed the B58. "The Air Force," he said, "will comply with the law of the land."
The sonic boom — generated when shock waves created by compression of air in front of the plane slapped the ground—was reported at numerous points in California, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Pennsylvania and New York. Other areas probably felt the boom but did not connect it with the B58 flight.

There were many damage reports in the Los Angeles area. At Long Beach, plate glass windows were broken at a bowling alley and a doughnut shop. The boom shattered a 4-by-5-foot window in the Long Beach apartment of Bertha Long. "I thought the world was coming to an end," she said.

Windows Broken
Seven store windows were broken at the Broadway shopping center in Anaheim, Calif. Three store windows were knocked out in Riverside.

The speed dash pared more than two hours from the old round-trip mark of 6 hours, 46 minutes, set in 1957 by an RF100 Voodoo. It also broke the west-to-east mark of 2 hours, 49 minutes, set last May 24 by an F4H Phantom II, and the east-to-west mark of 3 hours, 36 minutes, set by the 1957 Voodoo flight.

Got Medals
The three B58 crewmen—Capt. Robert Sowers, 35, Lexington, Ky.; pilot, Capt. Robert MacDonald, 35, Cresskill, N. J.; navigator, and Capt. John Walton, 29, Greenville, Ky., defense systems operator—were awarded Distinguished Flying Crosses. They also captured the 1962 Bendix trophy.

There were three refuelings in the air from tanker planes—one over Missouri on the trip east, another over the Atlantic near New York at the midway point, and a third over Kansas on the return trip.

The average speed going east was 1,212 miles an hour. Going west, against headwinds, it was 1,091 miles an hour.

Into the Sunset

Unusual Film Shows Glenn on Space Flight

WASHINGTON (AP) — You watch astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. squeeze space food into his mouth as he hurtles over Africa.

You see his exultant smile as he emerges into dawn. You see the light grow to almost blinding intensity as he comes down in his fireball ride to the sea.

It's all in a remarkable film taken inside his Friendship 7 capsule while he made his historic triple orbit of the earth Feb. 20. The movie got a sneak preview Monday in a darkened hearing room on Capitol Hill. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it soon will be available for public viewings.

New Excitement
The close-up color film of Glenn's trip—from donning his space suit through excellent views of the capsule's recovery by the destroyer Noa—gives new excitement and immediacy to the now oft-told tale.

You are with Glenn as he experiences the heavy forces in the takeoff. You see the straps of his space suit floating freely in the air as the astronaut becomes weightless.
Perhaps the eeriest part is when the capsule races into the shadow of the earth and flies on through the night. It is dark inside the capsule except for a red, lit clock face and a few winking orange lights on the control panel. You see Glenn's big smile as the capsule emerges into dawn over the Pacific for the first time.

There is a perceptible bump or jerk as the retro rockets fire to slow the capsule for its re-entry into the atmosphere. The light grows to almost blinding intensity as Glenn plunges to the sea, the most critical part of the journey.

No Sound
The film, hastily edited down to 32 minutes by NASA, was shown without sound track. NASA official George Low provided a narrative for the standing room audience of congressmen and congressional workers.

To save weight in the capsule, the film was exposed frame by frame very slowly, so that the motion is jerky. But Glenn's calmness and self-possession at all times are apparent.

In an old tradition, the movie ends with Glenn flying off in a helicopter into the sunset — his fourth sunset that day.

Extend Education, Official Suggests

Length of Schooling Would be Increased From 12 to 14 Years

CHICAGO (AP)—There is no body of man's knowledge doubles much to learn, and so little time every 15 years.
In another prepared paper, Prof. G. Bailey Price of the University of Kansas said that new developments in mathematics are bringing a radical change at all levels of education.

"In the past," Price said, "only the best of the universities in the United States have expected their freshmen to start with calculus and analytic geometry; but, in the future, almost all colleges and universities will demand this new standard, and almost all of their students will meet it."

Furthermore, many high school students study calculus and begin their college mathematics at an even higher level.
Prof. Claude A. Welch of Michigan State University said U. S. colleges and universities must prepare themselves for more enlightened and critical students in the years ahead.

As an example, Welch cited the new 10th grade biology course which requires an understanding of concepts about energy, the atom and molecule; simple chemical reactions, and graphic analysis.

New Program
Caldwell, in a prepared address to the 17th National Conference on Higher Education, also proposed a new and more rigorous college program.

Four-year liberal arts colleges should be established, he said, which would start about where the present junior year of college work begins.
Graduate work and professional education thus would be based on 18 years of formal education instead of the present 16, Caldwell said.

U. S. Nuclear Test Plan Spurs Soviets

Russians Eager to Hold More Explosions and Probably Will

BY PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service
Washington — The Soviet Union can be expected to use the U. S. intention to resume nuclear tests in the open air as an umbrella under which to explode further tests.

Along with the propaganda blasts against President Kennedy's decision to test again, threatening to respond in kind, the Russians have shown some evidence of being eager to conduct more tests—and they very probably will, in the judgment of some diplomatic officials here.

This belief is based upon known preparations the Russians have made for further testing as well as upon the calculation that Premier Nikita Khrushchev will try to shield his own intentions behind the charge that Washington forced an acceleration of the arms race upon him.

Soviets Not Serious
Officials are scarce here who think the Russians will come to the Geneva disarmament conference March 14 seriously prepared to negotiate a test ban treaty with adequate inspection and control. Mr. Kennedy said last week he would forego resumption of American tests only if the Russians sign such a treaty before the latter part of April, when U. S. test preparations will be completed.

Officials have emphasized they will not permit the Russians at Geneva to stall or drag out negotiations in order to make it tougher for the President to go ahead with the tests in late April.

Game of Delay
But they do not now expect the Russians to play the game of delay because of the judgment that the United Nations wants to test more itself.

72 American space vehicles and the anticipated Soviet tests, it is thought, will not be on the massive scale of last fall when more than 40 explosions occurred.

Some authorities have suggested that it would take months for the Russians to digest and analyze the data obtained from their tests of last fall. Others say, however, that the Soviets can always "proof test" in a relatively short time so as to resolve doubts they may have about existing weapons systems.

Meanwhile, the Western allies with the registration requirement, are showing signs of disarray over the Geneva conference itself.

French View
The French, who have had a jaundiced view of negotiating with the Russians in any case, have indicated they believe Geneva will be a wheel-spinning affair. So they will not attend.

The British, on the other hand, have been busy suggesting that Washington and London are prepared to accept less actual inspections on Soviet territory than previously thought necessary, day and carried them forcibly because of improved detection systems.

This U. S. disarmament chief committed to hand in a petition William C. Foster has flatly decried against the American decision to resume atmospheric nuclear tests. He said that a tighter system is now more desirable because of the fact that the Russians gain an advantage on the West through their ability to prepare in secret.

Diem Blamed For Problems In Vietnam

Chicago Daily News Service
PARIS — An exiled leader of the South Viet Nam opposition charged Saturday in Paris that President Ngo Dinh Diem is the main obstacle to his country's full and enthusiastic participation in the struggle against Communism.

As long as Diem remain in power, the West has no chance to win against Communism, said Dr. Phan Huy Co, head of the Free Democratic Party of Viet Nam.

The bombing of Diem's palace in Saigon Feb. 24 by two pilots of the South Viet Nam air force proves once more the hatred the Vietnamese have for the "corrupt close friend" and their wish to get rid of a regime that has proved incapable of defeating Communism, Phan added.

These charges were in a communique Phan sent to foreign correspondents and editors of the Paris press.

Appeal to U.S.
The communique ended with an appeal to the United States to halt aid to Diem and to help the Vietnamese overthrow his regime.

Phan said he was once Diem's 1950 but was never allowed to take his seat and was put in jail by Diem a year ago.

Phan spent one month in Washington in 1954, but Phan refused.

Phan has practiced medicine in Paris since 1950. He was a member of the Vietnamese Republican Party and a founder of its successor, the Free Democratic Party.

He became president of the Black Creek post office after being accepted at the village and Green Bay post offices.

Black Creek post office is in the village recently, visiting high officials of the State Department and members of congress to "inform them of the real situation in Viet Nam."

Clay to Visit Adenauer for Berlin Talks

Soviet Attitude Appears to be Getting Tougher

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service
BONN — Gen. Lucius D. Clay, president Kennedy's special representative, flew from Berlin today to the West German capital of Bonn for talks with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The meeting—the first such since Clay's arrival last September—was arranged at the Chancellor's invitation and would have taken place earlier except for Adenauer's recent illness.

Officially the protocol aspects of the talks in Schaumburg Palace were pushed in the foreground. Clay was to be accompanied by Walter C. Dowling, the state department's career ambassador here.

But Clay and the Chancellor are old acquaintances from Clay's days as military governor in Germany and unofficially the talks are expected to range widely over the problems of Berlin and the progress or lack of it in the exploratory conversations in Moscow.

Wants Information

Adenauer wants to know as much as possible about the American proposals for an "international access authority" to administer the land and air connections between West Germany and Berlin.

The Americans continue to press this plan in the Kremlin although it seems to be a dead issue so far as the Communists are concerned. The proposed international authority would have a "board of governors" representing the four powers that occupied Germany at the end of the last war and possibly others.

"We have no use for governors," said the official Communist newspaper in East Berlin in referring to this plan.

Bold-Face Lie

The last such "governor" in Central Europe, it said, was the Nazi Hans Frank who was "hanged in his former domain" in Poland. This, of course, is historical fiction. Frank was hanged by order of the Four-Power military tribunal in Nuremberg.

East Berlin's views, however, plainly have Soviet support. Anastas Mikoyan, a Soviet deputy premier who seems among the Kremlin leaders to have a special responsibility for East German affairs, emphasized this agreement at a reception last night in the East German Industrial Fair Center of Leipzig.

Mikoyan said Soviet patience was wearing thin and that the Soviets were prepared to sign a separate peace with East Germany if the Western powers stalled much longer.

Backed East

During his three-day visit, Mikoyan has gone out of his way to emphasize Soviet backing of East Germany's party boss Walter Ulbricht. Some Western sources have suggested that the Soviets were about ready to dump him.

In fact the Soviet attitude about Berlin has been hardening visibly in recent weeks, which many people in the West seem trying simply to ignore.

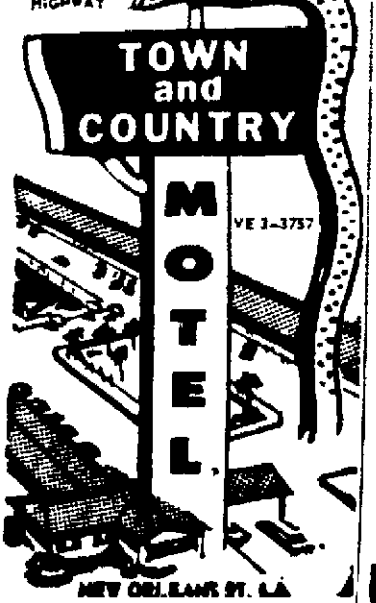

Mikoyan was to fly back to Moscow today to take part in the crucial committee meeting there.

Students With Goals Do Better in School

BY LESLIE J. NASON, D. ED.
Professor of Education
University of Southern California

Picture a farmer in the early morning with his horses at the watering trough. He wants to get into the fields and get on with the plowing. But the horses won't drink.

He coaxes them; he orders them. He loses his temper and rams their noses into the water. But they snort and pull back.

"You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink."

"What Can I Do?"

Parents sometimes have a similar experience with their children. They provide them with books and the opportunity to go to a good school but the youngsters won't study. At least, not enough.

Parents often ask: "What can I do to get my child to study?"

Students say: "I know that I should study but I just don't."

Perhaps the student needs a set of goals as to what and how he will study.

Students with specific vocational goals make better grades than had three or four but not all established after they had got a students without goals. And they five attributes. Students with low job, even though it might only enjoy better mental health than er grades lacked two or more. be to earn spending money after (those who drift.

5 Attributes

In a study of highly successful setting goals.

Some parents have arranged for conferences between their children and other adults. An out-Case histories of students show They knew their parents ap- sider can often be more objec- tive and thus give sound advice. that when they finally do adopt goals, their grades go up almost immediately.

Producers Good Results

They planned to go to college. I know two fathers who talk to each other's children. This seems natural and off-hand to the chil- dren and produces good results in both families.

Find Out Why

If pupils have not selected goals by the time they are in high school, it is well to check their academic work. Find out why they are doing poorly in some subjects.

My experience has been that once a child has become successful in a troublesome subject, his grades improve and he becomes goal-minded.

It is far more important that the child be goal-minded than that he keep goals.

Long-Range Plans

Goals are long-range plans. They need not be permanent. The earlier a parent instills the idea of being a planner in a child, the easier it is to bring about TOMORROW: Expect progress from your child.

Lawrence Will Have Experts on Latin-America

Student Conference Speakers to Join In Panel Discussion

Three specialists on Latin-American Affairs will visit the Lawrence College campus Thursday through Saturday as principal speakers for a student conference.

Keynote speaker is Dr. John Phelan of the University of Wisconsin history department who will discuss "Whither Latin America: Revolution or Evolution?" at 11 a.m. Thursday in Memorial Union. Joining him for a panel discussion at 7:30 p.m. Friday, and acting as resource personnel for the conference are Dr. P. T. Ellsworth, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, and Dr. Frank C. Miller, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology at Carleton College. Topic of the panel, also to be held in Memorial Union, is "Problems and Prospects for Latin America in the 1960s." Both events are open to the public.

Lawrence faculty members moderating discussion groups are Dr. John Alfieri and Richard Winslow of the Spanish department, and Dr. Minoo Adenwalla in government.

Several Grants

The conference grew out of a meeting on the same topic sponsored by the American Assembly several years ago. Thomas Fuld, Columbus, Ohio, is student chairman of the conference.

Dr. Phelan, who was trained at Harvard and the University of California, has received several grants including a Guggenheim, to study in Mexico, South America and Spain. He has written two books on the Franciscans in the New World, and the Hispanization of the Philippines, which have been published by the University of California and Wisconsin respectively.

Dr. Ellsworth has authored three books on international economics and economics in Chile. He has been assistant chief of an International Bank economic Survey mission to Ceylon and chief of a similar mission to Thailand. He was educated at the University of Washington, Oxford where he was a Rhodes scholar, and Harvard.

Dr. Miller, a Carleton alumnus who did his graduate work at Harvard, did field work in Mexico which has resulted in a number of scholarly articles. He has held six major fellowships, among them a Ford Foundation, a Woodrow Wilson, National Science Foundation and Social Science Research Council grant. In addition to his research among the Mexican Indians, he has been working among the Minnesota Ojibwas.

Submarine To Explore Ocean Floor

BY ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — We know little about airless space but maybe even less about the depths of liquid space that covers three-fourths of our planet.

Only about 10 per cent of the ocean's floor has been seen, let alone exploited. Man has been limited to the up and down, electric and magnetic, and the world's first aluminum submarine that will range the ocean bottom with three passengers at a depth of almost three miles. This should permit man to explore about 60 per cent of the world's ocean floor.

Known as the Alvin, the navigable submarine will be 50 feet long, weigh 150,000 pounds and permit a pilot and two scientists to stay down from 30 to 70 hours.

The aluminum hull, 6 1/2 inches thick, will withstand depth pressures of 9,000 pounds a square inch.

A steel hull of the same weight would probably burst like a balloon. A steel hull thick enough to resist the pressure would weigh three times as much and could not surface.

Looks Like Whale

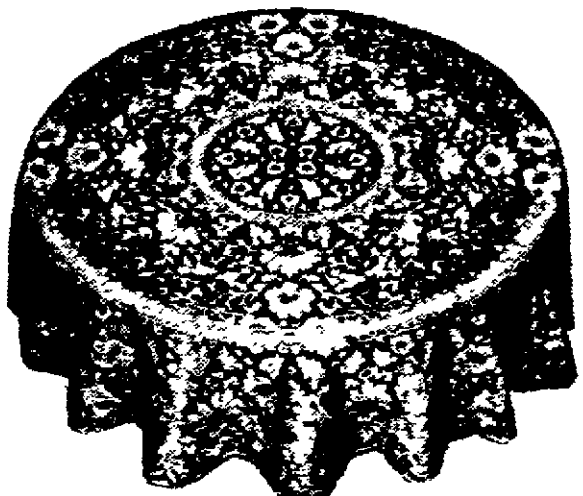

The electric boat division of General Dynamics Corp. will build it under a $2,000,000 contract. At San Antonio, 150 miles from sea, Southwest Research Institute designed and tested the scale model and finally emerged with a shape that looks like a whale.

The sub will be equipped with a mercury vapor lamp and sonar gear to guide it around the mountains and with robot arms to collect materials from the sea bottom.

Democrats Then and Now

Informed reports from Madison relate that high-ranking figures in the Wisconsin Democratic party are anxious to arrange their affairs in such a way as to avoid expensive and possibly antagonistic competition for principal party nominations in the state elections this year, and especially the governorship which evidently will be vacated by Gov. Nelson who would run for U.S. senator.

Appreciating some of the practical aspects of party management, we cannot object to these hopes and plans of the party loyalists.

But we cannot refrain from reminding our local Democratic friends, nevertheless, that here is an interesting example of the pragmatism of office-holding liberals that contrasts revealingly with the protestations of the same men when they were on the outside looking into the capitol.

For years the battle cry of the liberal Democratic apologists of Wisconsin was the "open" primary, the free competition of personalities and principles and ideas for the untrammelled selection of the voters in the nominating elections. During all those years there was derision and denunciation for the Republicans for daring even to hold voluntary delegate conventions for the screening of aspirants for nominations in the form of endorsements, or recommendations, to the voters in the primary election.

Without pretending to have any influence in the matter, we would regret it if the Democrats so arranged their internal affairs as to run a single candidate for the major office nominations this year. Mr. Carley, for example, has publicly acknowledged that he wants to run for the gubernatorial nomination if his friend and employer, Gov. Nelson, seeks the senatorial nomination. That would mean a head-on conflict with Attorney General John W. Reynolds, who has the same idea and who evidently has the support of some of the top party men, beginning with Chairman Patrick J. Lucey.

Again there is a very good chance that if Mr. Carley's ambitions are suppressed, and Mr. Reynolds gets a nomination by default, there will be some liberal-minded believers in the liberal slogans out in the state who will be perplexed, at the least, and annoyed, at worst. What will it serve the Democrats to hurl the epithets about "bossism" against the Republicans under such circumstances? It is a tantalizing little puzzle with which to tease the rank and filers as the new campaign year advances.

Forgotten Laos

The apparent aim of the United States, in urging a coalition government in Laos made up of representatives of the right-wing, the neutrals and the Red left, has been to stop the fighting in that country and neutralize it as far as the struggles between Communist and anti-Communist forces in Asia are concerned. So far the plan has worked all right. But it appears that the time has come to find a "neutral" leader who doesn't live under the domination of his half-brother, a Communist.

The United States last spring faced three alternatives in Laos. Either attempts would be made for such a coalition government, or the Communists would win or U.S. troops would have to be committed. SEATO turned thumbs down upon any active interference mostly because of British and French reluctance. The Kennedy Administration was not eager for such a jungle war which could easily result in a Korean style stalemate. Presumably the majority of the American people were not enthused about fighting a war for a people who didn't really care whether they were saved or not.

And so the United States has continued to put pressure upon the right wing to accept representatives of the neutral and Communist elements into a coalition regime. As we said, the major part of the fighting has stopped. But the Reds now seem to be having their way by taking over the neutrals.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the head of the neutralist group, is a half-brother of Prince Souphanouvong, a dedicated Communist according to all reports except those of Prince Souvanna Phouma. The latter not only insists that his brother is only a socialist and has no ties with communism, he says that there are no North Vietnamese troops in the Communist Pathet Lao, that Red China and Russia have no interest whatsoever in Laos, that really there hasn't been anything to argue about. All that is needed for peace, says Prince Souvanna Phouma, is for the U.S. to force the right wing to accept the coalition which obviously would give control to whichever side had the neutralists with it. And now there is no doubt that the Reds have far more influence upon Prince Souvanna Phouma than do the conservatives.

United States troops now are actively engaged in the struggle in Vietnam. We do not think that they should be sent to fight the war in Laos. What then is today's alternative to a gradual Red take-over? The Laotians have shown no dramatic interest in defending themselves.

It would appear that another United Nations emergency force could maintain order in the area. Obviously the U.N. is getting spread pretty thin, particularly financially, since certainly the Soviet Union would refuse to contribute any funds to such an action. But should not the United States at least bring the matter actively to the attention of the Security Council and the General Assembly? We must oppose communism wherever and whenever it strikes but we cannot do it all alone.

Our backing of a coalition government may only have served to confuse those Laotians who do understand and oppose Communist domination.

Perhaps we bought some time, but what for? Months ago we said editorially that our government had lost Laos. Recent events confirm our opinion.

No Cold Feet for Penguins

This is a good winter for studying penguins.

Maybe it's been the snow and cold or perhaps mere scientific curiosity, but one zoologist has been bothered about how penguins keep their toes warm. The penguin, from the knees up, is a beautiful example of nature's handiwork in warding off the elements. He is encased in fat and feathers and can ruffle up air spaces to increase his insulation.

But a penguin's feet are as bare as Whittier's famous boy's feet. And penguins don't have fleece lined boots or even grandmother's bed socks. They stand around most of the winter on ice and snow.

Zoologist Rowland Taylor thinks he knows why they can tolerate the chills without getting the chilblains. A penguin standing rocks back on his heels. He uses his tail for an extra balance. The soles of his feet are lumpy so that very little of them touch the ice at the same time. And there are thick calluses.

It's an inherited matter, of course. Even the new born penguin chicks, in the comparatively warm zoo, sleep with their pink toes in the air.

Newspapers Not Dying; Records Show Suburban Presses Boom

From The Saturday Review

Recent suspension of two daily newspapers in Los Angeles has set off more than the usual flood of rumors about the "dying newspaper." There have been so many big-city mergers, suspensions, and combinations in recent years that, on the surface, the rumors would seem to have merit. Offhand, it might appear tragic in the field of communications that the second largest metropolitan area in the country has now been reduced to one morning and one evening downtown daily newspaper, about as close to a monopoly situation as it's possible to move without single ownership.

But a closer look at Los Angeles and other huge metropolitan areas shows quite a different picture, and in fact a healthy one. In point of fact, more daily newspapers were started in the United States in 1961 than suspended publication, reversing a trend toward fewer dailies which began in the 1950s. The American Newspaper Publishers Association tells us that nineteen new daily newspapers were started last year while only thirteen suspended daily publication, a net gain of six dailies. Of the thirteen suspensions in 1961, three dailies were withdrawn outright, four merged with other newspapers, and six went from daily to weekly or semiweekly publication.

Suburban Areas What has been happening to the press in megapolis simply and logically parallels the population trend since World War II. Mighty few large American cities showed population gains between the 1950 and 1960 Federal Census. Indeed, of the top ten cities in the U.S. only Los Angeles and Houston increased in population in the decade. But the suburban metropolitan areas doubled and even tripled in the most stimulating population growth of the century.

The general manager of the ANPA, Stanford Smith, feels that the trend toward a larger suburban press and away from the once huge metropolitan daily is the wave of the future. The same thing is happening in the department store business; almost all large metropolitan department stores now have flourishing suburban outlets which, in a few cases, have completely overwhelmed the importance of the once-monolithic metropolitan establishment. And more than 60,250,000 copies of daily newspapers are now bought every day in the U.S.—a record high. A great many more of them are home-delivered in this highly motorized age than ever they were when the trolley and steam engine were our chief modes of travel.

Television and radio news coverage is yet another factor. The top national and international headlines are siphoned off at any hour through electronic newscasting. But no Douglas Edwards or David Brinkley can possibly cover the big local events so important to growing suburbia, exurbia, and interurbia. That gives the small local paper its finest hour and accounts for the perfectly enormous growth of successful weeklies, semiweeklies, and small dailies since 1950. They cover their field like the morning dew, as the saying used to go, and make a wonderful advertising media, albeit in a drastically changed communications profession.

'Haven't We Got Enough Problems to be Solved Right Here on Earth?'

No Trees, Fish Either

Even Indians Don't Want Country With $300 Billion Mortgage on It

BY MORRIE RYSKIND

A good many readers have voiced their approval of Adm. Ben Morreel's Committee for the Liberation of the United States, which has the avowed purpose of restoring the country to its original inhabitants.

Others, however, though agreeing heartily with the noble aim of wiping out the last vestige of colonialism in our land, contend that the current administration is proceeding toward that goal with all deliberate speed and should not be harassed by well-meaning citizens unaware of the difficulties involved.

History records, they argue, that the danger in changing the status quo of a situation, no matter how intolerable and offensive to human dignity, is that your very cure may unleash a new set of evils even worse than the old. And they point out the wisdom of the medics in refusing to okay a cure until they have had a chance to examine the after effects, which often turn out to be more pernicious than the disease they have sought to remedy.

The Indian Viewpoint

A thoughtful note from H. J. Garretson, of Pasadena, Calif., suggests some of the obstacles the admiral will have to face:

"At Tama, in my home state of Iowa, there is a small Indian reservation whose head man is greatly beloved for his justice and admired for his sagacity. When the neighboring town of West Branch, birthplace of Herbert Hoover, celebrated its centennial, the chief of the Tama reservation led his entire tribe in the most spectacular part of the parade. Mr. Hoover, incidentally, was the honored guest in the reviewing stand.

"At the end of the ceremonies, the chief, interviewed by the local press, was asked, predictably, whether the Indians would take the country back if it was offered to them. His reply was, I believe, noteworthy. "He said certain requirements would have to be met before his people would even consider such a proposition. First, the trees would have to be replaced on the hills; second, the fish would have to be restored to the streams, and third — and most important of all — the mortgage would have to be liquidated.

"I do not doubt that the admiral's committee is fully prepared to meet the first two conditions. But what are you going to do about that mortgage of $300 billion or so? Those Indians want the title free and clear."

Mr. Garretson has a point and, personally, I pass. I doubt that even sending a book by Galbraith proving that the debt means nothing, since the Indians would only owe it to themselves, would fool the Tama chief. He'd realize immediately that there was a paleface in the woodpile.

That ancient chestnut still may still be swallowed by uneducable white men who shut their eyes to history and blindly teach economics at our universities, but you can hardly expect a Kickapoo papoose or an unlettered Sioux squaw to fall for it. We've tricked them before, but we can't keep doing it all the time, as Lincoln reminded us.

It will take more than a city slicker to get them to trade their tax-free room and board at the reservation for a national debt bigger than that of the rest of the world combined. Any attempt to foist such a bargain on them, even in the name of justice, is almost certain to bring on an armed uprising and a poisonous rain of arrows. It is even possible that scalpings may come back.

Unless we are prepared to go to war, then we may have to face up to the sad fact that this is still our country and we are stuck with it. The only ray of light, otherwise, is that U Thant may be talked into sending his United Nations mercenaries to pacify the hostile reservations.

If that happens, I trust it will be done on TV. I've always hoped for a western where I could root for the Indians.

Cheap Tantrums Help to Relieve Voters Wrath

From The Miami Herald

We're intrigued by the offer of a certain telegraph company (all right, it's Western Union) to let patrons blow their tops in messages to Washington in 15 words or less for 75 cents per tantrum.

You simply call the complaint in and it goes to the White House or to a designated congressman.

Questions: What about the singing telegram, remembering that music bath its charms to soothe the average chestnut?

Or from messages? Like No. 10: Your (Education, Medical, Tariff) bill is a stinker (a beaut) it should be (referred back to committee, passed, vetoed). Or No. 15 for congressmen only: come home stop all is forgiven dash if you'll just stay here stop.

State Gets 3 More Congressmen

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for March 6, 1862.

The House has concurred in the Senate amendment to the bill fixing the number of Representatives, namely: There shall be 241 members under the census of 1860, and an additional representative from Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Vermont and Rhode Island, owing to the large fractions of the established ratio. The bill has become a law. (Wisconsin doubled its representatives to six under this law. The state had three congressmen under the 1850 census.)

The Homestead bill has passed the House by an overwhelming majority, after being amended so as to take effect in January.

The bill forbidding the army to return fugitive slaves has passed both Houses.

Hon. A. Scott Sloan, our respected member of Congress, has introduced a bill for the reorganization of the Supreme,

Circuit and District courts of the United States. This is one of the essential reforms entrusted to the Republican party and long since foreshadowed by Seward.

Brigham Young has been re-elected Governor of Utah and Heber C. Kimball, Lieutenant Governor. The vote for a State convention was unanimous.

Under the Capitol Dome

Language Barrier in State Planning Talks

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — A hundred or more of the leading officers of the state government and a few carefully chosen outsiders listened for a long day last week to an exposition of what was described as the first comprehensive state planning effort in Wisconsin.

Wyngaard

The impression upon the audience generally was good. It requires no great imagination to perceive that the state is entering an era of rapid change, perhaps more rapid than that of any preceding period of its history. Population movement, population growth, adjustments in the economic base including the gradual reduction in the comparative importance of agriculture and the slowly but steadily expanding industrial enterprise, urbanization, the peculiarities of the population trend including the polar expansion in the form of more of the very young and more of the aged—these and many other facts and signs suggest that the problems of managing public services in the future will be vastly different than they were in the past.

It also is evident that some officials are not yet quite aware of what is happening, and what it may imply in the adjustment of viewpoints and services. Thus the idea of a conference, a kind of seminar, was a good one.

Yet at least one visitor who sat attentively through most of these discussions felt a vague uneasiness about the way these planners are going about their job—the methodology as they would put it inevitably.

First, they have such obvious and extreme difficulty in communicating what they are talking about. These topics are really not so esoteric that an officer or a visitor of average or better educational attainment and demonstrated interest should be confounded by the murky vocabulary that is employed to cover them.

But several times this reporter, and as a guess some others in the room, were confused to tally by the unintelligible manner of the presentations—almost as if pedants were trying to show that this is such difficult material that only the cognoscenti can be expected to apprehend.

There also tugged at the sleeve the impression that this project is unnecessarily complex and detailed.

In government ordinarily there is a very thin line between "research" and made work, or boondoggling, as some of the New Deal era politicians used to say. The extremity of some of these projects suggests that the completed report may be addressed to governors and legislators not yet elected—perhaps not yet born. It might be well to have a practical controller directing some of the eager researchers brought together in this generously budgeted team—aside from the costs involved.

USEFULNESS

This planning work, if it has public justification, must be based not only upon the hobbyist instincts of these specialists, but upon the understanding of the policy makers of the state to whom it will be addressed. They will be politicians, ordinary, run-of-the-mill politicians who will sit in the legislature, on the county boards, and on the city councils and in the governor's office during the next decade. If they don't understand it, the whole effort will be lost.

It seems to one interested citizen in the bleachers that the purpose should be to document the changing character of the state, and the reasons therefore, and the impact of those changes upon the responsibilities of government in the next couple of decades.

A series of tomes that might qualify for a doctor's thesis in land economics might be fun, and might even be significant in contemporary scholarship. But it will have very little relation to the political system in which the decisions will be made if they are made.

Color of Man's Eyes Clue to His Character?

From The Chicago Tribune

After reading a recent column by the good Dr. Van Dellen, he surreptitiously (shudder) darted a look in the mirror, and, discovering that our eyes were a pretty blue, we rendered this self-analysis:

"Ambitious, competitive, impatient; strongly motivated toward power, and with a high opinion of oneself; mechanically oriented and influenced by public opinion, but does not understand subtle feelings, emotional language, and love; lacking in emotional insight and knowledge of the inner world of nonverbal communication."

It was not exactly flattering to our eyes, but Dr. Van Dellen had dredged up a Dr. Kent of Montreal, author of the Kent Iris Pigment Scale, who professes that the eye pigment depicts basic character, and this was his estimate of the blue eyed.

We didn't think we were really as ambitious, competitive, and lacking in tender feeling as the doctor made out; and certainly he missed by a mile in attributing to us a mechanical knack. We can't change a faucet washer, and the gasoline piston engine has been and forever will be an absolute mystery.

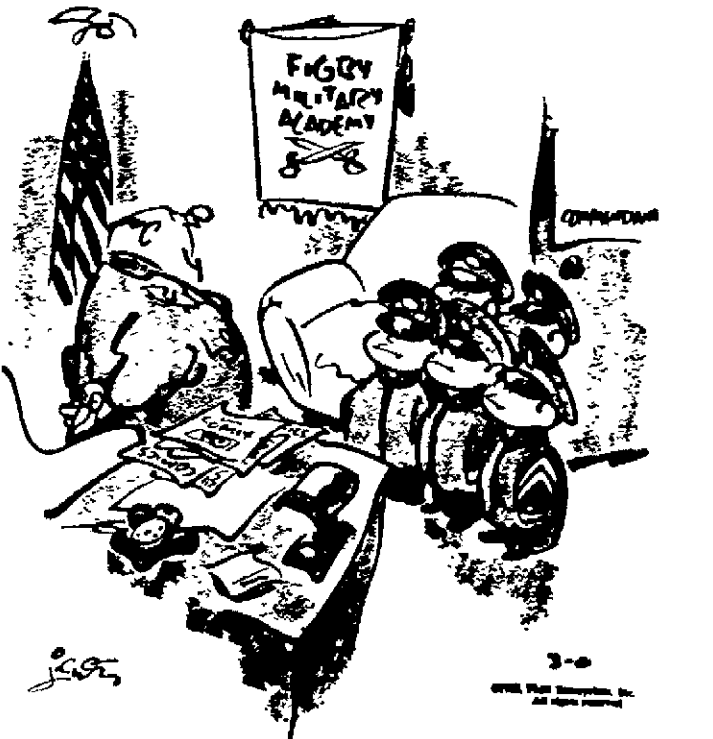

We wished for a moment that we were brown eyed, for Dr. Kent, altho acknowledging that the blue eyed are logical and obey laws, coppers that with the charge that they are inclined to indulge in self-pity and are suspicious besides.

But the brown eyed don't come off too well, either: Stubborn, lustful for food and sleep, crybabies, self-centered extroverts, obsessed by guilt feelings, disrespectful of law, doubtful of their intelligence, fearing isolation, and craving immortality, they are in sad shape indeed.

Concluding that, whatever the color of your eyes, you can't win, we decided to forget Dr. Kent's Pigment Scale and await another and more enjoyable column.

Kennedy Tells Nikita To Avoid Propaganda

from the Soviet leader which was delivered here Sunday, was very brief. It was delivered in Moscow early today and released by the White House here later.

Khrushchev, disappointed in his campaign to press Kennedy and other Western and neutralist leaders into a summit meeting at Geneva, had reluctantly agreed, in his message, to send Gromyko to meet with Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

The Soviet chief also used the opportunity to denounce Kennedy's decision last week to resume nuclear weapons testing in the atmosphere in late April. He characterized as atomic blackmail the President's offer to cancel the test series if Russia would agree to a test ban treaty with an international inspection system acceptable to the West.

No Propaganda

The President, obviously referring to such points as those, said there were many comments in Khrushchev's letter with which the United States "cannot agree." But he said he did not want to engage in a propaganda exchange with Khrushchev, and declared:

"Let us, instead, join in giving our close personal support and direction to the work of our representatives (at Geneva), and let us join in working for their success."

It was disclosed Monday that the Soviet premier, in a switch from his previous proposals for starting the March 14 Geneva disarmament conference at the summit level:

1. Agreed to the Kennedy-Macmillan proposal to launch the Geneva gathering at the foreign ministers level.
2. Agreed to send Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to Geneva a few days early to confer with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, as Kennedy and Macmillan had suggested.

Aides said Rusk planned to leave Washington in time to meet Gromyko and Home in Geneva about March 12, with a main topic to be a treaty on banning nuclear tests.

France's announcement Monday that she would not take part in the conference—thus reducing nations represented from 18 to 17—evoked little reaction here.

President Charles de Gaulle had made plain previously his view that the Geneva parley had little prospect of achievement. If the negotiations do start to make progress, U. S. officials expect France to come back into the picture.

ment of the provisional plan to begin above ground nuclear tests in the latter part of April.

"It doesn't matter how hard you try to justify this decision," Khrushchev told the President. "There can't be two different opinions about the fact that it is a new expression of the aggressive course in international affairs, a blow against the 18-nation committee which is just about to open, a blow against the forthcoming disarmament talks."

(France's decision Monday night not to participate will reduce the national delegations at Geneva to 17.)

Khrushchev noted Kennedy's statement that the new series of tests was necessary to ensure the United States' lead in nuclear weaponry.

"But you didn't mention a word about the fact that the United States and its allies in NATO have held many more nuclear explosions tests than the Soviet Union," Khrushchev said. "This is a fact."

Cites Soviet Reasons

Khrushchev said it must be understood that if the United States and its allies add another series of tests to improve their nuclear weapons, "The Soviet Union would face the necessity of holding such tests of its new weapons which under those conditions might be required for its security and to preserve the general peace."

The Soviet premier said Kennedy was starting "a new round of the competition in creating more death-dealing kinds of nuclear weapons."

He noted the President's assurances of American nuclear superiority and his warning that the new tests are necessary to avoid being left behind by the Soviet Union.

"Where is the logic, Mr. President?" Khrushchev sarcastically asked.

"Obviously, you don't bring these two ends together. Your whole logic, Mr. President, results in the fact that you now announce that the United States is starting a new series of nuclear tests and it was just recently that you and the whole Western press were reproving and quite correctly, the harm those tests cause."

troops today into Tay Ninh Province—100 miles northwest of Saigon and about 3 miles from the Cambodian frontier—to follow up another government victory.

Centered on Outpost

The operation centered around the government outpost of Bo Tuc, which was attacked Sunday night by a Viet Cong force now estimated at 1,000. Only 79 civil guards and militiamen manned the post. They managed to hold off the attackers for 15 hours and 10 were missing the next day. The attackers burned the post.

South Vietnamese air force planes dropped a battalion of 540 paratroopers near the post Monday. Before the battle was done, 56 Viet Cong were killed and large numbers were reported wounded or captured.

U. S. Army helicopters shuttled in a second battalion today to assist in running down fleeing Communist guerrillas.

So far no victories have been recorded on either side that could be considered decisive. But military observers here consider this new direct contact between opposing forces is highly favorable to the government. The main problem for Diem's forces has been in finding the Viet Cong in large enough concentrations to attack them in force.

and began debating it, with Gen. Voronov as the lead-off man. Voronov is a newly elected member of the Presidium who made a reputation in Siberia as a successful farm leader.

To cope with the mounting food shortage, Khrushchev proposed:

1. Planting vast areas of grassland in grain, despite objections from some agriculture experts that this departure from the traditional crop rotation system will result ultimately in less production.
2. Doubling production of farm machinery and encouraging the farmers to make better use of it.
3. Increasing production of chemical fertilizers now in critically short supply.
4. Increasing the farm labor

der the terms of his contract will be paid to him."

Powers' contract called for payment of a $30,000 annual salary. Part of this was withheld while he was engaged in U2 flights and no payments were made to him after his capture and imprisonment by the Russians. He has about $50,000 due.

Both the Senate and House Armed Services committees made the CIA report public.

The report said the poisoned needle carried by Powers, and mentioned in his trial in Moscow, was "intended for use primarily if the pilot were subjected to torture or other circumstances which in his discretion warranted the taking of his own life."

"There were no instructions that he should commit suicide and no expectation that he would do so in those situations just described," it added.

The report said there was no evidence to support any belief that Powers' predicament was brought on by "pressure from or defection to the Russians." It also ruled out the possibility of sabotage.

The intelligence agency reported that Powers told its investigators that he could have reached the "destruct" switches which would have set off an explosive charge in the plane.

Explanation Accepted

The report appeared to accept Powers' explanation that, although he could have pulled the switches, he could not, at that time, get into position to eject himself from the doomed and falling aircraft.

Powers, who was released by Russia Feb. 10, in exchange for master Soviet spy Rudolf I. Abel, went before the Senate Armed Services committee at 2 p.m. for testimony on the incident in which his plane was forced down on May 1, 1960.

It was Powers' first public appearance since his exchange in Germany and flight back to the United States.

CIA Statement

The CIA statement said that competent experts had studied Powers' description of his experiences when he and his plane were buffeted by an explosion at high altitude "and have concluded on the basis of scientific analysis that a U2 plane damaged as he described would perform in its descent in about the manner he stated."

"Accordingly," the report said "the amount due Mr. Powers under the terms of his contract will be paid to him."

It's Vote by Boat in Tiny Florida Town

ISLANDIA, Fla. (AP)—In Islandia you must boat to vote. Islandia, 33 islands offshore from Miami is Dade County's newest municipality. Its 15 or so registered voters have been having their troubles trying to hold an election to choose a mayor and councilmen.

They will vote today, after boating over—if they can float a 1,000-pound voting machine from Miami to Elliott Key, largest of the islands.

Islanders were all set Monday to elect municipal officers the old-fashioned way, with paper ballots. Then city attorney Jack Watson took note a voting machine was a legal necessity.

Dade County offered a voting machine, but it was 30 miles from the legally advertised polling place. Arrangements were made for a boat to haul the machine, then it was learned the Elliott Key dock wouldn't support the 1,000-pound machine. A derrick was obtained late Monday to swing the machine from the boat to solid beach.

The premier warned that the Soviet population, now at 200 million, will reach between 250 and 280 million in the near future.

Failure to increase farm production accordingly will "confront the country with great difficulties and the cause of building communism will be seriously damaged," Khrushchev declared.

benefit all industry. But it would be a particularly big blessing for steel, which spent $13.8 billion for new facilities between 1946 and 1960.

This figure included total allowances of $7.7 billion for depreciation during those years.

Another possible windfall for the steel industry could come through better depreciation allowances for plant and machinery.

Steel is one of 10 industries whose depreciation allowance problems are under study by the Treasury Department.

IRS Ruling

The textile industry has already been granted relief by the Internal Revenue Service through adjustments in depreciation allowance rules. A ruling by IRS 400, on Dec. 18 set forth a new schedule for computing depreciation of machinery and equipment in the textile industry, whose competition is facing a similar problem.

Administration sources said there is no plan at the moment for the President to dangle these tax carrots on the big stick in an effort to get more concessions for the Steelworkers from the steel industry.

But the steel industrialists are in an attempt to locate a tough bargaining agent. They ship which went down 60 years ago with a load of iron and steel.

Jobless Pay Shows Decrease

MADISON (AP)—Wisconsin unemployment compensation payments in February came to $5,736,500, a decrease compared with January this year and February a year ago, the State Industrial Commission reported today.

At the close of last month 44,100 workers were jobless and claiming normal benefits. In January the total was 47,600 and in February of 1961 the count was 71,400.

January payments this year totaled $5,328,100 and for February from atop the ice saves expense of a barge with its crew and equipment.

Our Children Alphabet Often Ignored In Children's Learning

BY ANGELO PATRI
It would be too bad to allow the alphabet to fall into the educational scrap basket but that is what seems to be happening in a good many schools. When we stopped teaching children to learn to read by spelling out words, building on the syllables arranged alphabetically, and began teaching in the better way of sentence recognition, some of us forgot the need of the alphabet. That need is very real.
I think that the beginners in the Primer class do not need, and should not be taught to name the letters, until they can read a story. That usually means about the end of the first six months in school. During that time they have used the letters, sounded them, applied those sounds to the recognition of new words. They have become familiar to them through use, the very best way in the world to learn them.
Now it is time to teach them the alphabetical list. Let them chant it, identifying each letter as they say it. They are to memorize it so it stays with them as long as they live, because they are going to need it for that length of time.

Use of Dictionary

The dictionary is the basic book for the use of language in any form. It must be on hand to settle spelling difficulties. It is the last word in pronunciation. It is a storehouse of information giving definitions, historical meanings and background, derivation, all very useful, essential in many instances, to all who talk, think and write.
The words in the dictionary are listed in precise alphabetical order. When one knows that N follows M and precedes O, one finds the right pages without loss of time. When one learns that the word in the N pages are again listed alphabetically, the N's, N's down to N's, all in line, it is easy to find the wanted word. Yet I have found boys and girls in first year high school turning the pages of an unabridged dictionary hopelessly because they did not know how to use the alphabetical arrangement.
Students are dependent upon library catalogues, encyclopedias, files of all sorts and if they do not understand the alphabetical arrangements, they are at a loss. To avoid this waste of time and loss of information, we must teach the alphabet and its use in the elementary grades. Every child in the grades from the powerful five-card trump suit, a third through the ninth should have practice in the use of the dictionary. It is their chief tool.

West opened the queen of hearts, and South ruffed. Declarer cashed the ace of spades, lead a diamond to dummy's king, and returned a spade with the intention of finessing.
East discarded a heart, and South began to perspire. He finally played the ten of spades.

and West won with the queen.
West led another heart, and East put up the ace. South saw that he would have fewer trumps than West if he ruffed, so he discarded a diamond to keep control of the hand.

Too Late
This attempt to coddle the trumps came too late. East returned the queen of diamonds, and West ruffed declarer's ace. South still had to lose a diamond, and all was lost save honors.

"There was an easy way to assure the contract," writes H. Edsel Hughes, of Montpellier, Vt., who contributed the hand. "South can protect himself against a bad trump break by letting the opponents take the first two heart tricks. Meanwhile, he discards two low diamonds."

Quite right. The defenders cannot lead a third heart, since then dummy will ruff. No matter how the defense proceeds, South can give up one trump trick and take the rest.

Watch for this sort of play when you are forced to ruff very early in the hand. It may pay to discard a loser or two until dummy's trumps can come to your rescue.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S A K J 10 7 H None D A 5 3 2 C A K J 5. What do you say?
Answer: Bid two spades (forcing to game). The hand is too powerful for a mere one-bid as reported in the diagram. You should expect to make a game if partner has no high cards and at all.

SUBSTITUTE BRIDESMAID

One of my bridesmaids is in the hospital and even though the wedding will not be until April 28, she will be unable to be present. Everybody knows who is to be in the bridal party. I would like to replace her by asking another friend who happens to wear the same size dress. The dresses have been ordered. Would it be proper to get the substitute and how would I go about it? Are we expected to pay hotel or motel expenses for the out of town guests? Are printed thank you notes acceptable for wedding gifts? What are the duties of the best man and are the bridegroom's parents supposed to pay for part of the reception cost? Will tuxedos be correct for a morning wedding at 11 o'clock? Do mother and I tell my fiancée's mother what color and style dress she should wear? At the breakfast do I sit on my bridegroom's left or right? Are we expected to stay until all the reception guests leave?

Louise Davis Answers:

I suggest that you put your cards on the table when asking your friend if she will be an attendant. I am sure that she will say yes, but before you give her a chance, be sure to tell her that the dresses have been ordered and be sure to describe them. You wouldn't want her to purchase one that isn't becoming or which she wouldn't want to wear afterwards. All out of town guests are expected to pay their own traveling and hotel expenses. Your other questions are too numerous to answer in a column. You will find them along with any piece of furniture can solve, which shapes metal into spindle chairs and sometimes decorated them with stencils. The Ailing House Lead Anchor Can Support Wall Studs

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We have a large room built as an extension to the house which we use for dining during the summer. This has an asphalt tiled floor on a concrete slab. I want to divide off part of the room to use for storage. How can I fasten the studding for the wall partitions to the floor?

A: First put down a sill plate (2 x 4, laid flat); for this, drill a hole through the tile into the concrete to receive a lead anchor or a hole through the tile into the concrete to receive a lead anchor or expansion shield (available hardware dealers), then fasten the sill plate in place by bolts. Then nail the studding to the sill plate.

Q: We have fibreglass panels around our patio for privacy. Now we would like to paint it a different color as we are changing our furniture. What kind of paint should we use?

A: Marine supplies dealers carry epoxy coatings used for fibreglass boats. Consult the classified telephone directory under "Marine Equipment and Supplies." Or use a polyester primer, followed by marine paint. Be sure to wash the fibreglass surface first and have it absolutely dry; then sand it down for better adhesion. Wipe off all dust before applying any new coating.

Legislature Chose Wisely

He said the legislature probably chose wisely when it directed its agency to enforce the law because it has had 23 years of experience in the administration of the state labor relations code as it applies to employers and employees in private business. Municipal Officials Ask Careful Rules for New Bargaining Law

Labor, Municipal Spokesmen Ask If Both Parties Must Request Mediation

MADISON — Cautious municipal officials Monday asked the state labor board for careful procedural rules for the administration of the new state municipal labor relations law fought through the recent legislature by municipal labor organizations after a decade of effort.

Chairman Morris Slavney and other members held a formal hearing on proposed rules of conduct of the board which is responsible for the enforcement of the new statutes which assure local employees group bargaining rights on a collective basis, and permit state board mediation and fact finding in local government labor disputes under certain circumstances.

Slavney assured a crowded roomful of local officials and labor representatives that the board will write the procedural rules with an "open mind."

its work in employment relations," he asserted.

"There would be fewer old maids and old bachelors around today if there had been somebody to bring them together earlier," he added.

Governing Body

Johnson also asked the board to make certain that it defines the employer as a party in local government labor disputes as the governing body, such as the city council or county board, unless the governing body has delegated its bargaining and related rights to a division of the local government.

With other spokesmen, the League agent also asked the board to nail down a rule that there will be no state fact-finding procedures in local labor disputes when there is a local ordinance providing for such fact-finding for the guidance of the public that is in substantial compliance with the state law.

Labor union spokesmen had only incidental comments to make on the fat book of proposed procedural ruleh, which presumably will be issued as orders during the next month.

James Mortier, Milwaukee alderman and a leader of the council in the state's largest metropolis, proposed the creation of an advisory council that would assist the state agency and contain representatives of interested parties including local government employers. Arvid Anderson, board member, assured him that such a plan has already been approved.

Kimberly Okays Salary Raises

4 Per Cent Hike Retroactive to Jan. 1, 1962

KIMBERLY — The village board Monday approved a 4 per cent pay increase for salaried employees, the increase retroactive to Jan. 1. A $22 per month merit increase was approved for the deputy clerk - treasurer over and above the percentage raise.

Board members approved incorporation of a major medical insurance program with the village to pay 75 per cent of the total cost.

Representatives of the hourly paid workers appeared before the board questioning why overtime pay received between Jan. 1 and Jan. 22 this year was paid at the 1960 hourly rate when a pay hike was made retroactive to Jan. 1.

Board members agreed, some confusion must have arisen on the pay schedules and ordered the clerk to bring in a breakdown of overtime hours paid during that period. This will be reviewed at a committee meeting Monday.

U. S Ambassador May Give Insight To Cuban Problem

Community Series Presentation Features Joseph S. Farland

Fox Cities residents will have a "press row" insight into the growing critical problems of the U. S. embassy in Ciudad Trujillo, then the capital of the Dominican Republic. In 1960, President Eisenhower named Farland ambassador to his present post in Panama.

The "America and the World Community" series was launched in April, 1959 and has included appearances by such notable world figures as Dr. Charles Malik of Lebanon, then president of the United Nations; Vice President Richard Nixon, and James B. Reison, chief of the New York Times Washington Bureau.

Farland is expected to discuss the background of U. S. assistance to Latin America and will explain the "new trend" in the U. S. relations based on the theory of development diplomacy.

A review of the Cuban problem will be explained, pointing out that the "rosy glamour" that surrounded the Castro who defeated a hated dictator has faded into the red reality of a classic Communist takeover.

The ambassador will explain his role in the Punta del Este conference and the steps that were taken which eventually saw Cuba withdraw from the conference and the Organization of the American States.

Manitowoc Firm Reports On Preliminary Findings in 4 Appleton Neighborhoods

Correcting sanitary and storm sewer problems in four sections of Appleton where critical basement flooding has occurred probably will cost the city more than $250,000, the street and sanitation committee learned Monday.

That cost is in addition to the more than $150,000 the city already is spending to build a relief storm sewer in the north central portion of the city.

The committee received a preliminary report Monday from Fenner-Brey Engineering Corp., Manitowoc, which was hired by the city.

Burglar Pays Return Visit as Store Owner Tries to Repair Window

NEW LONDON — Two burglaries were reported to police Sunday. Both were at Patton's Food and Locker Service, 302 N. Water St.

The first burglary was reported by Orville Patton, owner of the store at 9:35 a.m. The burglar had gained entry to the store by a basement window and took $17 from the cash register.

After police investigated the first entry, Patton left the store to get material to repair the damaged window. While he was gone the store was re-entered and $2 was taken from the cash register. This time the burglar also took a package of cigarettes.

The money taken the second time was from purchases made by customers while police were investigating the first entry.

Patton repaired the window before leaving the store for the second time.

Authority on Zen Buddhism To Speak at Lawrence College

Allan W. Watts, internationally known authority on Zen Buddhism, will speak at the Lawrence College campus at 7:30 p.m. March 13 in the lounge of Memorial Union. His topic is "Ideas of Human Nature: Ancient East and Modern West."

According to Life magazine, "In the late '50s Watts rode the U. S. wave of Zen popularity as its most lucid interpreter." He has written a dozen books on comparative religion, including the classic "The Way of Zen."

Watts' pronouncements on Zen include the following:

"Zen does not confuse spirituality with thinking about God while one is peeling potatoes. Zen spirituality is just to peel potatoes."

"Don't Fight Tensions"

And "Don't fight your tensions. Zen claims you can reach a high level of happiness when you stop fighting annoyance and are willing to accept the fact that you're angry."

Dr. Watts was born in England, educated at King's School in Canterbury, and came to San Francisco in 1938. In the course of his career he has been an editor, Episcopalian minister and college professor. According to his own statement, he left the Episcopal church, "not because it doesn't practice what it preaches, but because it preaches."

A prolific writer, Watts wrote his first book, "The Way of Zen," at the age of 20, while he was active in London in the organization of the World Congress of Faiths.

Watts gives more than 100 speeches a year on college plat-

Eighteen boys signed up for Appleton's first Soap Box Derby at a registration party this weekend. The derby, sponsored by the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be July 15.

About 60 boys attended the party, at which regulations for the derby were explained. It is open to boys throughout the Fox Cities.

Each boy participating in the non-commercial derby will be sponsored by a business firm. Boys can select their own sponsors or will be helped to find one by the Jaycees, Ayer said.

Skiing Accident Blames Court Case Involving Morals Offense Charge

Action on a charge of enticement and taking indecent liberties with a minor against Eugene T. Stusek, 45, formerly of 830 W. Wisconsin Ave., was continued for a week by Judge Gustave J. Keller Monday.

The matter was continued because Stusek's attorney, Karl P. Baldwin, broke his leg in a skiing accident and was not able to be in court. Stusek is being held in Outagamie County jail without bond.

Stusek was returned from Central State Hospital, Waupun, after a 60-day mental test ordered by Judge Keller Jan. 2. Stusek pleaded guilty to the charge at that time. The offense took place Dec. 30 in Stusek's trailer, the complaint says.

Project 70 Men To Meet With County Democrats

Twin Cities
CD Program

MENASHA — Each municipality must provide for civil defense. Area Director Robert Hensen of Watertown told the Common Council Monday night at the committee of the whole meeting. He was called in by Mayor John Klein because the council a few weeks ago reacted unenthusiastically about the pending idea of joining a CD organization involving the Cities and Towns of Neenah and Menasha. Hensen recommended Menasha join the proposed system because of the close interrelationship of the four municipalities. A joint CD agency, Hensen went on, "is not unlike a mutual aid assistance pact" as used by fire departments to pool their equipment in major fires. While highly improbable that "the enemy" will put a direct hit on Menasha with an atomic or nuclear bomb, fallout will be a factor for up to 250 miles downwind from the blast area, and areas like this must be prepared to accept many refugees, he said.

Plan $475,000 Bond Issue For Town Sewer District

10 Days Must Elnapse Before Menasha Can Adopt Resolution

MENASHA — An initial resolution calling for a $475,000 general obligation bond issue to finance part of the sewage treatment project for the eastern side of the Town of Menasha was read Monday afternoon by the commissioners of Sanitary District No. 4.

Ten days must lapse after the reading of this resolution before it can be adopted. After its adoption there must be a lapse of another 30 days before the bond schedule resolution can be adopted.

The bond schedule resolution will set forth the details of payment and the interest to be paid. Town Board members in their role as sanitary district commissioners met with H. K. Harley of Harley, Haydon and Co., Madison, which will handle the financing.

The commissioners also formally approved the installment payment plan whereby those receiving special assessments for this phase of the interceptor sewer installation may pay their assessment in 10 annual installments, with the interest rate to be 6 per cent per year on the unpaid balance.

The charge for connection to the interceptor sewer was reduced from the previous $180 estimate to $140 per connection. This rate is only good for the period when the project is under construction by the present contractor.

The assessments for the interceptor sewer installation of $3 per front foot and the connection charges, figured at 300 connections at $140 per connection, are estimated to bring in $195,000.

With the $475,000 bond issue and the $60,750 federal grant toward the treatment plant, revenues are estimated at $730,750. The total were not signed within 30 days project cost as now contracted after the preceding agreement.

This includes $422,871 for the interceptor sewer installation, $42,000 for the sewer tap connections, $182,300 for the construction of the treatment plant and pumping station, $4,251 for the electrical wiring of the two buildings and $75,000 for engineering yet the union is bargaining for legal fees, contingency fund all city employees. The third party, not elected by citizens, is in da.

Aldermen Balk At Requirement In Labor Pact

Arbitration Clause Ruled Illegal by Menasha Attorney

MENASHA — Aldermen Monday night balked at inclusion of an arbitration requirement in the proposed 1962 labor agreement with Local 1035, Menasha City Employees Union.

At last week's street committee-union meeting, the agreement was to leave out the requirement to arbitrate if a new agreement estimated at $730,750. The total were not signed within 30 days project cost as now contracted after the preceding agreement.

This includes $422,871 for the interceptor sewer installation, $42,000 for the sewer tap connections, $182,300 for the construction of the treatment plant and pumping station, $4,251 for the electrical wiring of the two buildings and $75,000 for engineering yet the union is bargaining for legal fees, contingency fund all city employees. The third party, not elected by citizens, is in da.

effect setting the tax rate." (In any dispute, an arbitrator's ruling binds both parties. Parties to a dispute would not be bound by recommendations of a mediator.)

Steffens read from an opinion of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities agreeing that arbitration for the city, in the face of existing ordinances, is illegal and invalid.

Because Menasha will hire a director of public works next month, and since he will be an important part of the chain of command, discipline and grievance procedures, the labor agreement submitted by the union is unsuitable, Steffens continued, since the director's role is excluded.

By Thursday's council meeting, Mayor John Klein and the street committee were to resolve the differences with Robert W. Swanson, area representative of the Wisconsin Council of County and Municipal Employees, who has been the local union's bargaining agent.

Despite some balking, the aldermen seemed in favor Monday of hiring a court stenographer for the March 19 prosecution of Police Chief Peter P. Clark before the Police and Fire Commission. Some wanted the city to pay the entire costs for the court reporter's transcript of the hearing, while the city attorney and finance committee recommended paying half, if Clark pays half.

Clark is expected to appeal any dismissal action to the circuit court. "It looks as if (Clark) wanted the city to underwrite his appellate costs." The item will be on Wednesday's council agenda.

How to tell how much to invest in stocks and bonds

The first problem for many new investors is to decide how much they should invest. If this is your problem, writing down answers to three questions will help you decide quickly and easily:

What is your monthly income, after deductions? What are your total monthly living costs? (Don't forget yearly expenses, such as taxes.) What should you set aside for emergencies? (Be realistic.)

When you determine how much money you have available for investing, consider the following questions:

What to buy? This depends on your personal investment goals. There are different kinds of securities, and certain ones are normally better suited to certain purposes. For example, common stocks of some companies have a good history of paying dividends, and you will want to consider them if your goal is extra income during the year. You may think stocks of other companies offer a better possibility for growth in value of your investment over the years. Bonds usually offer greater stability of income and safety of principal.

What are the risks? Prices don't always go up; they also go down. And a company may not continue to pay dividends or interest. You'll lessen the risks, however, by acting on facts and advice from a broker—not on tips and rumors from friends, relatives, or strangers.

Where to invest? Consider choosing a broker with a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. His judgment is not infallible, he has no crystal ball in which to see the future, but he has met Exchange requirements for knowledge of the securities business. He will gladly review your goals with you. When you see him, ask about some of the famous companies listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Army Engineers Suggest Green Bay Harbor Project

$4,610,000 Estimated Cost of Project Includes River Turn Basin

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has recommended a $4,610,000 improvement project for the Green Bay Harbor. It was announced Monday by Rep. John Byrnes.

The project would lower the channel depth to within one foot of the maximum depth on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The project also includes the authorized construction of the East River turning basin which will raise the total estimated cost to $4,610,000.

While this is the first step in harbor improvement, the project must be approved by the Secretary of Army and Congress. Congress must also, in separate legislation, appropriate the necessary funds.

Mayor Roman Denissen was informed of the Corps of Engineers $4,610,000 recommendation for the harbor in a telegram from Byrnes Monday morning.

Turning Basin

In a separate letter from Byrnes received Monday Denissen was asked for the city's present position on the long proposed ship turning basin and asked whether any city official could testify if the basin proposals reaches a house committee hearing.

Byrnes said Monday "it is my hope the Corps of Engineers can complete their work and report to Congress so as to begin the project this year." He said he would "make every effort to see that the harbor improvement project can be started as soon as possible."

The Corps of Engineers recommended deepening the entrance channel from 22 to 26 feet in Green Bay south to Grassy Island. This distance is approximately 11 miles.

Entrance Channel

The channel width from that point in Green Bay to Long Tail Point is to be 500 feet. From Long Tail Point to Grassy Island it is to be 300 feet wide.

The second recommendation is to deepen the entrance channel to 24 feet from Grassy Island to near the yacht club, a distance of about one-half mile. The channel width is to be 300 feet in this area.

From near the yacht club, the Fox River will be deepened to 24 feet for a distance of 3.2 miles from the Chicago and North Western bridge near the Green Bay-Alouez boundary. The channel widths here will range from 100 feet to approximately 80 feet at the three vehicular traffic bridges.

The project also includes dredging a turning basin at the mouth of the East River. The depth is to be 24 feet. Present depths range from two to nine feet. The basin is to be a maximum of 1,000 feet wide.

Corps of Engineers recommendations also list $20,000 annually for maintenance in addition to the present $50,000 now authorized for such purposes.

Public Hearing

These recommendations are part of a Great Lakes harbors study authorized by Congress in 1956. A public hearing on the matter was held here in February, 1957.

At that time local authorities requested the harbor channel be dredged to a depth of 27 feet from a point at that depth out in Green Bay to the Main Street bridge and to 22 feet from the Chicago and North Western bridge to the turning basin in De Pere. This portion of the river is presently 18 feet deep.

No request was made to deepen the river from the present 22 feet between the Main Street bridge and the Chicago and North Western bridge.

The Corps of Engineers made the recommendations subject to the following conditions:

1. Provide land, easements and rights-of-way for the construction and maintenance.
2. Hold the U.S. government free from damage suits due to the construction.
3. Riverfront land owners dredge their slips to the same depth as the channels which serve them.
4. That the city alter sewer, water, drainage and other utility facilities to accommodate the project.
5. Furnish proper disposal areas for the dredging refuse.

Fierce Storm Hits East Coast Areas

Seas, Winds Wreck Boardwalks; 23-Inch Snowfall Restricts Travel

Seas, Winds Wreck Boardwalks; 23-Inch Snowfall Restricts Travel

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The worst storm of the waning winter walloped the region from Alabama to New England today. Fierce winds and a snowfall measuring up to 23 inches disrupted travel, sent tides pounding ashore in low coastal areas and caused considerable damage. Power wires were downed and windows were broken.

Schools were forced to close in some areas and traffic was either halted or restricted on numerous highways.

Gusts up to 58 miles an hour and heavy seas tore away a part of Atlantic City's famed Steel Pier, a summer amusement facility which juts half a mile out into the Atlantic from the resort city's boardwalk.

The wrecked portion of the pier was used for a water circus, featuring a diving horse.

A part of the municipal pier at Ventnor, N.J., also was washed away.

The heaviest snowfall during the early morning hours was recorded in northern Virginia. It was measured at 22 to 23 inches in Culpeper, Manassas and Winchester. Counting a previous accumulation, the depth was 30 inches in some sections of central and western Virginia.

The forecast for most areas on the northeastern seaboard called for a heavy snowfall to continue into the night.

At least 30,000 homes in the Maryland and Virginia areas around Washington, D.C. lost their electric power when the snow downed trees and power lines.

The District of Columbia, which had four to five inches by 8 a.m. invoked emergency rules under which motorists are subject to arrest on key thoroughfares if they block traffic because of a lack of chains or snow tires.

Commuters bound for work in New York City were delayed on the South Shore lines of the Long Island Railroad because high winds blew down power cables.

Ferries linking Manhattan with New Jersey and Staten Island were halted or delayed at times.

A large tree was blown across the Pennsylvania Railroad's Chestnut Hill line at the Moreland station in Philadelphia and tied up service for an hour for commuters.

Played Prank

Trains on runs south of Washington were reported late.

The storm played a prank on Prince Georges County, Md. Downed wires caused burglar alarms and air raid sirens to sound off at intervals during the night.

An unmanned Navy destroyer being towed by a tug went aground at Beach Haven Inlet, N.J., when the tow line broke because of the stormy seas. The destroyer was the Monssen, being towed from Bayonne, N.J., to Philadelphia in a routine relocation.

At New York's Idlewild Airport, dozens of planes were delayed from a few minutes to an hour because of poor visibility and high winds. Some 12 flights had been canceled.

For the first time in years, some of Virginia's primary highways were blocked. They included U.S. 1 and U.S. 301, principal north-south routes.

Freezing Rain

The light snow changed to light freezing rain for about an hour in Milwaukee in early morning.

Temperatures in the state Monday night ranged from a low of 3 below zero at Eau Claire to 23 above at the Milwaukee airport.

Other minimum readings early today included La Crosse zero, Lone Rock 6, Superior-Duluth area 11, Madison 17, Wausau and Beloit-Rockford area 18 and Green Bay 19.

High temperatures generally were some 10 degrees below season normals Monday. The top mark was 27 at Lone Rock. Other maximums were Green Bay and Wausau 26, Milwaukee 25, Park Falls 24, Madison, Beloit-Rockford, La Crosse and Eau Claire 23, and Superior-Duluth 21.

Police Chief Defends Owner Of Beer Bar

Scene of Glass Fight 'Supervised' Thompson Claims

WAUPACA — Weyauwega Police Chief Kenneth Thompson defended the management of Radtke's Recreation, a Weyauwega beer bar, in a statement issued Monday.

Chief Thompson said he heard criticism about the operations at Radtke Recreation, but maintained that the management is not responsible for recent incidents there.

He said any trouble at the establishment has been caused mostly by people living outside of the area.

Loss of Eye

Radtke's Recreation was the scene early Saturday morning of an attack on Richard Stern, 19, New London, which resulted in the loss of his left eye. Richard P. Soper, 20, route 1, Amherst, is being held for County Court on a charge of mayhem.

The incident took place, Chief Thompson said, in a back room off the beer bar. He said that Clarence Radtke, owner of Radtke's Recreation, has agreed to close the back room.

Chief Thompson said that Radtke runs "well supervised" beer and liquor bars in conjunction with the bowling alleys.

It was brought out in Municipal Justice Court Monday that Chief Thompson walked into the beer bar a few seconds after Stern was struck in the face by a shattered beer glass.

He said that Robert Ingersoll, 22, New London, was holding Stern up by the arm and asked the bartender to call a doctor.

Fire Damages Two Homes

Water Shortage Hampers Firemen At Route 4, Chilton

CHILTON — An overheated hot water heater and a coal gas explosion were blamed for fires that burned two Chilton area homes over the weekend.

About 12:35 a.m. Sunday, flames swept through a vacated apartment at the Charles Smith home at Lehner and N. Madison streets. The interior of the apartment, the most recent addition to the Smith home, was destroyed.

Smith turned in the alarm. He and his wife, sleeping in another part of the house, were awakened by smoke. Smith went to the door of the apartment, recently occupied by his elderly father, and found it in flames.

With a damp towel wrapped around his head and face, Smith managed to enter the blazing rooms but was able to save only a pet dog.

The flames were contained in the apartment. The heat was so intense that, though separated by closed doors, the entire house was scorched.

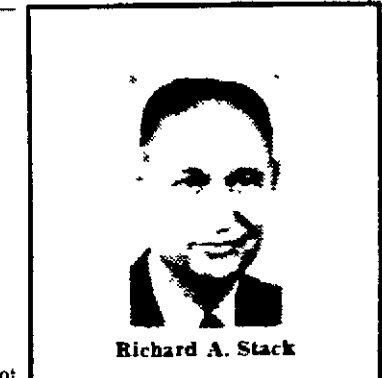

No damage estimates were made.

Chilton Called

Potter firemen ran out of water while fighting a smoldering blaze Saturday afternoon at the Jake Mallmann home, route 4, Chilton, and called for assistance by the Chilton department.

The farm home, located about five miles northeast of here, was set ablaze by a coal gas explosion which put the basement in flames a short time later.

Firefighters declined to estimate losses.

W. T. Bernhard, chairman of the Project 70 committee, told of the appointment at an Appleton Lions Club meeting at the Conway Hotel Monday.

Appleton Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski in February showed the Project 70 committee a number of proposed appearances that College Avenue might take after it is reconstructed in the next few years. He said the reconstruction is necessary because sanitary and storm sewers under the street, which now are separate, must be combined. The pavement needs to be replaced, too, he said.

Duszynski asked for the Project 70 committee's suggestions for the avenue's new appearance. Some of Duszynski's proposals would place trees on the avenue.

Bernhard told the Lions briefly

A film shown to the Lions pointed out the development of "sprawl, congestion and blight" in all cities and emphasized the need for complete community participation to eliminate these problems. Bernhard explained that the problems are not serious in Appleton, but that the committee is working to keep them from becoming serious.

Check-Cashing Spree Leads to Prison Terms

Woman Receives Three 3-Year Terms, Nephew 20 Months

A check-cashing spree has led to prison terms for a young Appleton man and his aunt.

Mrs. Dolores Case, 29, formerly of 429 N. Morrison St., was sentenced to three three-year indeterminate terms in Taycheedah Prison for women on three counts of forgery. The terms are to run consecutively.

She also was sentenced to a year in Outagamie County Jail for aiding a parolee to abscond and a six-month term in Outagamie County Jail for theft. These sentences will run concurrently with the sentence at Taycheedah.

Kenneth Newhouse, 23, who also formerly lived at 429 N. Morrison St., was sentenced to 20 months in the Green Bay reformatory for forgery. The term is to run concurrent with the reformation of his probation.

Sold TV Set
Newhouse and Mrs. Case were arrested in Marinette after they and Mrs. Newhouse turned back from a trip to the state of Washington. Mrs. Case's husband and son are in Washington, she told Judge Keller Monday, but she has been here for five months.

Detective Edwin Lietz said the pair had a television set on approval, sold it for $30, and Mrs. Case opened a checking account with the money.

She then wrote $90 worth of checks on the account and forged other personalized checks found in their apartment. With the balance of one of the forged checks, which Newhouse cashed, they bought a car and Newhouse, his wife and son are in Washington, she told Judge Keller Monday, but she has been here for five months.

Mrs. Newhouse convinced them to return when they reached South Dakota.

Couldn't Find Job
In sentencing Mrs. Case, Judge Keller said, "Do you know what you have done to that little boy? You have caused his father to go back to prison." Mrs. Newhouse and their infant son were present in court. "Do you know what you have done to that woman? You have caused her husband to go back to prison."

He called her a menace to society. Newhouse said he knew what he was doing was wrong, but hasn't been able to find a job and hoped he could get a fresh start in Washington. He has been living on what he earns playing a guitar in taverns, he told the judge.

Judge Keller told Newhouse he "had better listen to his wife" the next time he thinks about breaking the law. He commended Mrs. Newhouse for her "moral courage" in persuading her husband to return.

Laundry Workers Vote to Affiliate With Teamsters

CHICAGO (AP) — Affiliation with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters has been voted by members of the Independent Laundry, Dry Cleaning and Dye House Workers Union.

Ralph T. Fagen, president of the 70,000-member laundry union, said the vote was 32,764 to 610.

Teamsters Announce Organization Plans

Robert Schlieve, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 563, said this morning that the local will begin organizing Fox Cities laundry and dry cleaning establishments.

"It's an open field that certainly needs organizing," Schlieve said. He said laundry and dry cleaning establishments are not subject to federal minimum wage laws, but only to state minimum wage standards.

"The international union will be setting up organizing programs and we will be part of it," he said.

Fagen said delegates met Monday at a special convention to announce the vote.

Votes against affiliation were cast by locals in Danville, Ill.; Tacoma, Wash.; and Helena, Mont., Fagen said.

The teamsters and the laundry union on both were expelled from the AFL-CIO at the labor organizer's 1957 convention on charges of abiding corrupt practices.

High Snowbanks Block View; Two Cars in Intersection Collision

Mrs. Arthur Smith, Bear Creek, received minor chest and left wrist injuries at 8 a.m. Monday in a two-car accident on N. Prospect and Pitt streets in Bear Creek.

Mrs. Smith told county police she was driving north on Prospect when she collided with a car driven by Harry A. Langenhuzen, 55, Bear Creek which was rounding a curve on Prospect Street whose parents were divorced, at the intersection with Pitt Street.

County Patrolman Calvin Spice said Langenhuzen collided with a car driven by a woman at the same intersection Feb. 28. Snowbanks block the view at the intersection, Spice said.

A Catholic War Veterans committee starts making plans for the state convention, which will be held in Appleton May 18 to 20. From left are Clifford McHugh, treasurer; Francis Sumnicht, second vice commander; Roy Rickert, commander and general chairman of the convention, and Mrs. Reinhart Gresenz, ladies' auxiliary president and convention chairman.

Supreme Court Frees Children's Home Director
MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court today reversed a circuit court which jailed the superintendent of the Milwaukee County Children's Home for criminal contempt when he refused to accept the custody of a 16-year-old boy.

The high court directed Judge Robert C. Cannon of the Milwaukee County Circuit Court to dismiss the proceedings against Superintendent C. F. Ramsay.

Last September Cannon ordered Ramsay to accept at the children's home a boy and a girl living a curfew on Prospect Street whose parents were divorced, at the intersection with Pitt Street. When Ramsay refused, he was judged in contempt and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

Ramsay spent 12 hours in jail before he was freed on an order issued by Thomas E. Fairchild, a justice of the Supreme Court. Ramsay then appealed.

Church Choir to Give Haydn's 'Creation'

3 Soloists From Lawrence, Chicago, Milwaukee to Assist

NEENAH — The choir of First Presbyterian Church, Neenah, will present Haydn's "Creation," at 7:30 p.m. ARSh Wednesday, March 7, in the church sanctuary.

Assisting the choir will be soloists Mari Taniguchi, Lawrence faculty soprano; Kenneth Jorgensen, oratorio tenor from Milwaukee, and Richard Schreiber, Chicago bass.

Daniel Smith, organist and choirmaster of the church, will play the organ accompaniment and direct.

Great Popularity
Composed late in Haydn's life and first performed in Vienna in 1798, the "Creation" has achieved popularity second only to Handel's "Messiah."

Miss Taniguchi, singing the part of the Angel Gabriel, holds degrees from the Eastman School of Music. She has spent nine years studying voice in Italy. For several years she was Robert Shaw's leading soprano in his first recording group.

Jorgensen, the Angel Uriel, is well known in the Fox Cities for his memorable performances in Lawrence College productions of the "Messiah."

Schreiber, the Angel Raphael, was a student of the eminent Theodore Harrison of Chicago. He has sung extensively in the Chicago area and has been "Messiah" soloist in Appleton three times.

The oratorio, built up in three sections on texts from Genesis and Milton's "Paradise Lost," is the story of the creation told in song by the angels with commentary by the choir.

The program is open to the public without charge.

Two Jailed for Driving With License Revoked

Judge Gustave J. Keller Monday ordered jail terms for two men who admitted driving after their licenses had been revoked. He sentenced them $50 or another 20 days in jail.

The men are Harrison J. Skene and John E. Fitzgerald, 25, Milwaukee. Both will be allowed to work out of jail on the Huber Law.

Fitzgerald will be transferred to Milwaukee to serve his term. He was arrested Dec. 22 on U. S. 45 by a state patrolman.

Judge Keller said that "maybe if we put some of these individuals up in jail for a while this driving after revocation will stop."

Worthless Check Writer Gets 60 Days

"We can't just shake hands and say goodbye" to people who write worthless checks and then offer to make restitution, Judge Gustave J. Keller said Monday. He then sentenced Harold Haight, 32, route 3, New London, to 60 days in jail under the Huber law for writing worthless checks.

"Some individuals seem to have the idea that if they write bad checks and then pay for them when they are caught, everything is all right. That's not the case," Judge Keller told Haight.

Family Troubles
Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer charged Haight with writing a $20 worthless check, and told Judge Keller that several other checks written by Haight in Winnebago County would not be charged against him because Winnebago County authorities did not wish to consolidate the charges.

Haight told Judge Keller he went to Chicago on a check-writing spree after family troubles. Haight will be transferred to Waupaca County to work out of jail under the Huber law.

Bar Owner Fined $100 for Allowing Minors to Loiter

Armin C. Schabow, owner of the Midway Bar, 2506 E. Newberry Road, today was fined $100 by Judge Gustave J. Keller after Schabow was found guilty of allowing minors to loiter in his bar.

Schabow's trial, which began Thursday, ended today with the testimony of occupants of the bar has sung extensively in the Chicago area and has been "Messiah" soloist in Appleton three times.

There has been no question that there is a conflict of testimony in this case, and the court has been disturbed by the type of testimony and by the conduct of the individuals involved. Judge Keller said. He added "the court cannot accept the testimony of the defense in the case."

Conflicting stories had been offered by the bartender and bar patrons, and the minors who said they were in the bar the night of Dec. 30. The minors were later arrested by a state patrolman after a fire in their car.

Sewer Corrections to Cost City $250,000

quette from Superior to Harriman streets.

In the Oneida-State-Wisconsin Atlantic area Fenner-Brey recommends installation of an additional $500 of storm sewers to relieve overloading of the present system, which in some places is a combined storm-sanitary sewer.

Separate System
The additional, separate sewers are needed, they say, to prevent overloading of the sewage treatment plant with storm water and to reduce pollution of the Fox River, as well as to prevent flooded basements.

The new storm sewer would be laid on portions of 16 streets in the area. It is the opinion of the engineering firm that the State-Wisconsin - Bennett-Packard area is not much of a problem.

Six widely scattered cases of flooded basements were reported, is expected to eliminate flooding the firm says. It believes that if the Glendale - Marquette area, some storm sewer inlet connections are removed from the sanitary sewer system the flooding will be relieved.

However, the firm wants additional information on the area before it makes any recommendations. The sewer starts at Glendale and goes east to Appleton Street, then north to Northland Avenue (U.S. 41). From there it goes east to the city limits and flows into an open ditch, which empties into the Fox River.

Relief Sewer
The relief storm sewer being built in the north central section is expected to eliminate flooding the firm says. It believes that if the Glendale - Marquette area, some storm sewer inlet connections are removed from the sanitary sewer system the flooding will be relieved.

However, the firm wants additional information on the area before it makes any recommendations. The sewer starts at Glendale and goes east to Appleton Street, then north to Northland Avenue (U.S. 41). From there it goes east to the city limits and flows into an open ditch, which empties into the Fox River.

Information Needed
Additional information is needed before it can recommend possible solutions to flood conditions in the Badger-Commercial - Linwood-Reeves area, too, the firm says.

Present information indicates two principal causes of flooding in this area, the firm reports. The 8-inch sewer lines on Commercial, Winnebago and Reeves streets are laid at less than minimum grade and are dead-end sewers. They do not allow maximum flow, and because of the slow movement of sewage the solids settle out and block the pipes.

Also, the Summer Street lift station overloads the Badger Avenue sanitary trunk sewer, causing back-ups into basements.

85 Per Cent Complete
Fenner - Brey says its survey of the city's sanitary and storm sewer systems is 85 per cent complete. Work was halted Dec. 15, because of severe winter weather. It will be resumed as soon as weather permits, the firm says.

Director of Public Works Edwin Duszynski told the street and tending the relief sewer on Glen-senwin Division committee he believes the Manitowoc firm should be able to complete the survey in three weeks from the time when it is able to resume work.

Ernie's on First
Banks Will Give New Position All-Out Try

BY JERRY LISKA

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs like to think they know who's on first.

It's slugging Ernie Banks, now getting an all-out test as a first baseman after riding to fame at shortstop.

The switch was prompted by the departure of Ed Bouchee to the New York Mets, plus the 31-year-old Banks' trouble last season with his eyes and a long-ailing knee.

The Cubs' Charley Grimm, once an artist at first, said Monday: "Ernie has the main assets of a good first baseman — quick hands and quick movements. His main problems are to learn how to come in on slow hit balls and to tag with his right foot instead of his left. A right-handed thrower gets off a relay better if he tags with his right foot."

Banks is approaching the new assignment with the zeal of a rookie.

Tip Top Shape

"It's a good position and I want to give it a real hard try," said Ernie, who appears in tip-top shape without trace of the miseries which last season had him trying the outfield and even a brief fling at first base.

"You have to call the shots fast, like when you should charge a

Rayl Hits 37 Points To Catch Dischinger

Indiana '5' Wins, 104-92, Over Illinois

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One of the closest individual scoring duels in Big Ten history will end Saturday with either All-America Terry Dischinger of Purdue or Jerry Rayl of Indiana the winner.

Rayl poured in 37 points Monday night in leading Indiana to an 104-92 victory over Illinois. The output pulled Rayl into a tie with Dischinger who is seeking his third straight scoring crown.

Each has scored 429 points in 13 games. In Saturday's final games, Indiana will be at Ohio State in a regionally televised matinee and Purdue plays at Michigan, also an afternoon encounter.

Gopher Record

Offhand, Dischinger should be the favorite because of the opposition. Michigan lost to Minnesota in Monday night's only other game and Eric Magdanz of Minnesota scored 42 points for a new Gopher single game record. The previous high was 40 by George Kline against Iowa in 1957. Minnesota won 102-80.

Rayl, who set an individual conference mark earlier in the season with 56 points in one game against Minnesota, shattered a couple of Indiana records Monday night.

Rayl boosted his all-games total to 689 points in 23 games, erasing the season mark of 661 by Don Schlundt in 26 games during the 1952-53 campaign. His 244 field goals also eclipsed Schlundt's mark of 230.

Not only will Dischinger and Rayl battle for the conference scoring title but the winner will probably grab the all-games scoring crown. Dischinger has 696 points in 23 games and holds a slim seven-point advantage over his pursuer.

St. Norbert Earns Tournament Berth

Crushes Whitewater, 102 to 85, On 52.4 Per Cent Shooting

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — St. Norbert crushed Whitewater State College here Monday night, 102-85, with a fan-doubtful double figures. Dave Heisig had last-second-half scoring spree to 19. Stu Jansen, 17; Kaukauna's Leroy Weyenberg, 16; Appleton's Dick Rankin, 16; Tom Gossens, of Kimberly, 16; and Menasha's Mike Wisneski 14.

The Green Knights rolled up 70 points, believed to be a school record, in the final 20 minutes as they 23 for the Warhawks but J. P. dizzled a near capacity crowd at Fisher, the team's leading scorer, Oshkosh State College's Albee was held to nine markers.

Hall with a fast-breaking offense that completely shattered a press of Whitewater, kingpins of the Wisconsin State College Conference.

Hits 26 of 44
This will be the DePere college's second straight trip to the National tournament. Last year St. Norbert beat Northland to advance to the National finals but lost to Central Oklahoma in the opening round. In 1960 the Knights lost to Oshkosh State in the district playoff.

Unofficially, St. Norbert burned the nets at a 59 per cent clip in the second half—(26-44) and at a nifty 52.4 per cent rate for the game on 39 for 74.

The Warhawks themselves hit 35 per cent in the second half and a respectable .421 over the route (35 for 83), but to no avail.

Six Green Knights scored in the double figures. Dave Heisig had last-second-half scoring spree to 19. Stu Jansen, 17; Kaukauna's Leroy Weyenberg, 16; Appleton's Dick Rankin, 16; Tom Gossens, of Kimberly, 16; and Menasha's Mike Wisneski 14.

Hortonville's Joe Steffen scored 23 for the Warhawks but J. P. dizzled a near capacity crowd at Fisher, the team's leading scorer, Oshkosh State College's Albee was held to nine markers.

The first half was no indication of what was to come. The Warhawks attempted to press St. Norbert but the Green Knights shattered the defense with Wisneski and Gossens repeatedly getting the ball in to Jansen, Heisig and Weyenberg for easy baskets.

St. Norbert quickly opened up a 9-point lead in the first 2-1/2 minutes of the second half, and the teams then traded baskets for the next seven minutes with the Knights leading, 63-54, with 10:15 left to play.

The roof then fell in on Whitewater. In the next 1:20 the Knights scored 11 straight points to lead by 20. The St. Norbert Turn to Page 7, Col. 5

Joey Jay Ends Holdout For $28,000

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Joey Jay, 21-game winner in Cincinnati's drive to the National League pennant last year, ended his holdout today by signing with the Reds for an estimated $28,000.

The 26-year-old right-hander thus brought to a close a verbal dispute with General Manager Bill DeWitt of the Reds which has lasted through the past several days. During the wrangling, Jay attempted to become a free agent by trying to buy his contract from the club, first for $150,000 and then for $200,000.

Jay said he was satisfied with the terms and was eager to join the team in training.

Piersall Stunned By Woodling's Charges of Preferential Treatment

Gene Claims Jimmy Has Private Room, Special Food Money

BY JOE REICHLER
POMPAHO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Jimmy Piersall, baseball's stormy petrel, said today he was "stunned and hurt" by charges of his Washington teammate, Gene Woodling, that he was getting preferential treatment.

Woodling, the Senators' player representative, charged Monday that Piersall, the club's highest paid player, got a room to himself and demanded special eating money and bed boards.

"Who does this guy think he is? Joe Di Maggio?" Woodling asked. "I don't like this prima donna treatment he's getting."

"There's nothing personal in this," Woodling continued. "I'm all for him. I hope he hits .350. I want to help him and I'll bend over backwards to do it. But when it comes to disrupting harmony, I've got to do something about it."

Came Determined
Piersall said he had never asked for any special favors and he was at a loss to understand why Woodling had made the charges.

"I have always liked and admired Gene very much," Piersall said. "I don't know why he is teasing off on me."

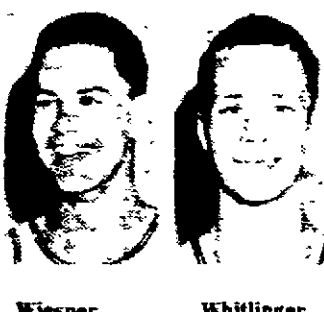

Piersall said he came to camp determined not to create any controversies.

Testimonial Set April 30 for Green Bay

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Vince Lombardi will be saluted at a community testimonial dinner at the Elks Club Monday evening, April 30.

The banquet will be a civic expression of appreciation to the Packers' head coach and general manager for returning the Packers to national prominence.

Thus, the Packers' amazingly successful chief will be honored for the first time in his newly-adopted home town. He had been feted throughout the country in each of the three off-seasons since he was named coach of the year after the 1959 season, his first at the Packer helm.

Cliff Cook Will Replace Freese

Gene Breaks Ankle in Reds' Intra-Squad Game

BY JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Freddie Hutchinson of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds is faced with his first on-the-field crisis today. He must try and find a replacement for slugging third baseman Gene Freese.

Freese broke an ankle in the Reds' intra-squad game Monday and Hutchinson immediately indicated that he would give rookie Cliff Cook the chance to take over.

Not only is Hutch on the spot, but Cook is walking into a lions den. The 25-year-old infielder already has flunked two tests with the Reds, but may just have been a slow starter. He was voted the American Association's most valuable player last year, playing for Indianapolis, where he batted .311 and slammed 32 home runs.

Cook's home run potential will be vital to compensate for the loss of the 28-year-old Freese, who doctors say will miss the first two months of the season. Freese had his finest major league season in helping the Reds to the pennant. He hit .277, slugged 26 homers and drove in 87 runs after being acquired from the Chicago White Sox.

three nationally ranked teams In-and-out Colorado is in again which suffered upsets last night, —in solid control of the Big Eight but the Wildcats' loss may have been the most costly.

The Buffaloes, getting a big assist from Oklahoma State, have regained the conference lead and are now only one step away from the NCAA tourney, a berth they apparently had lost for good in a defeat by potent Kansas State in 19 games.

But Oklahoma State found the Wildcats, ranked third in the nation, looking the other way Monday night and registered a 78-68 upset. It was the first time the Cowboys had beaten Kansas State in 19 games.

Kansas State dropped into second place in the conference with an 11-2 mark. Colorado, which beat Missouri 73-64, now is 12-1. Each has one game left. Kansas State must beat Nebraska Wednesday to retain a chance for a tie while Colorado, which led most of the season only to fail in the last couple of weeks, can win it all with a victory over Kansas Saturday.

ger Gene-Mauch has been grooming Demeter for the spot.

General Manager John Quinn of the Phils said Monday, before learning of Freese's injury, "We are not interested in Cliff Cook."

It's a cinch that Hutchinson doesn't feel the same way.

Pitchers Jack Sanford and Pete Ramos felt interested enough about the coming season to sign their contracts Monday. Sanford signed at San Francisco's Phoenix, Ariz., camp for a reported $25,000—a token raise for his 13-9 record. Ramos of Washington ended his holdout by taking a slight cut from the $20,000 he got a year ago. Ramos had an 11-20 American League record and led in gopher balls with 39.

Pitcher Bob Belinsky of the Los Angeles Angels also signed for the major league minimum of $6,000 which will be boosted to $7,000 if he still is with the team 30 days after the season begins. He had protested that he was being treated unfairly by the Angels.

Boston Red Sox outfielder Gary Geiger was back in uniform despite a painful shoulder injury, but pitcher Ted Willis was still sidelined by a shin injury suffered last Saturday.

Outfielder Jack Waters of the Houston Colts was hit above the ankle by a thrown ball during base running practice Monday. The ankle was packed in ice but the injury did not appear serious.

Appleton '5' Wins State YMCA Crown

Appleton came through the semi-finals with a victory over Milwaukee Central.

The Appleton YMCA's volleyball team placed second in the state meet at Beaver Dam. It defeated Madison, Fond du Lac, Waukesha and Monona Grove but lost to Racine, the tournament champion.

Today's word: gerrymander; to alter unfairly, as the election districts of a state or county to gain political advantage. From Elbridge Gerry, a governor of Massachusetts, whose party redistributed a county's election districts in 1812. (Pronounce the "g" as "j").

There are 25 stones, placed in a straight line, on the ground at intervals of four feet. A basket is placed 10 feet from the end of the row. A runner starts from that basket and carries them, one at a time, to the basket. How far does he run altogether.

Answer

2900 feet. He runs 20 feet round trip for the first stone, 20 plus 8 feet for the second, 20 plus 12 feet for the third, and so on. This is an arithmetic progression, the sum of whose terms equals the number of terms divided by 2 times the product of the first term and the last term. To find the last term, you add the first term (20) plus the number of terms (25) minus 1 times the com-

Jingo Pens Story Plot That Could Come True

Dreams Up Community Art Center For County Museum, Drama, Exhibits

BY JINGO
Backstage in the TV world is agog these days getting story-lines ready for pilot films to be aired before the summer and fall contracts are signed.

Two of the new series being breezed about appear to be real honeys if they get on the air. One would star Patty Duke, the tremendous Heller Keller of the "Miracle Worker," playing a live cartoon character in the "Penny" strip. The other would put Jane Powell in the part created on Broadway and in Hollywood by Dorothy McGuire Rose Franken's "Claudia."

Jingo

On the performance book, these may be the closest we get to intelligent entertainment. Too often the fevered brains in the writing factories look at the ratings, work up a melange of ideas that clicked in the past and hope the pizza will start a new fad as we know it seldom does.

Although most likely, there isn't much percentage to it, there's no reason why we can't whomp a plot of our own.

Let's set the show in a little bigger than middle-sized community in the Midwest. This will give us a chance to throw all kinds of weather at the characters.

The size of the community will give us a chance to use talent and worth without resorting to the stock character of a has-been or a hermit rebel.

Now for the point—or argument—of the show. Let's set the action around a group of people. This way we can rotate the heavy roles—it's been tried before, you know. Let's make our group a community league of Sunday artists and maybe some amateur actors as well.

To get this group into action, let's have the actors get thrown out of their theater while the artists find out they don't have enough money to hire a gallery for a show. Real meaty stuff! And it hasn't been too overdone:

Well let's have the two groups get together and dream a bit. How about a big arts center, they say: a center with studios, rehearsal halls, a theater, a gallery and a museum? One of our stars will whip up some blueprints and the series is started with one fund raising scheme after another. The difficulties mount—weather, prejudices, double-crosses, etc.—and the series is set for weeks and weeks.

All right, all right, so it won't work. No one would buy it.

Maybe the whole kit wouldn't fit into the electronic cypoclos, but that idea of an arts center might have some merit to it. The Fox Cities' art and theater groups are pretty well taken care of as of now, but that center would be a

College Life Scene of TV Drama Show

BY TV SCOUT
9-10 (Channel 11) — Alcoa Premiere has a fascinating story of campus life in its play this week. This comes from a famous Lionel Trilling short story, which has appeared in at least one anthology of best short stories. Its main characters are a young English professor (Jason Evers) who is new on campus, after having an unpleasant experience at another college, and a brilliant but erratic student (Burt Brinckerhoff). The relationship between these two — the one trying to forget the past, the other trying to ignore the future — is the stuff of which first-class drama is forged.

7-7:30 (Channel 11) — Jasper, the Gregg family dog, steals the show on Bachelor Father this week, which has an above-average episode. John Forsythe is disgusted with Jasper, a confirmed couch-jumper. He wants him to stay outside in his drafty doghouse. Jasper's true friends — niece Kelly and manservant Peter — rally to the animal's defense and train him for movie roles.

7-7:30 (Channel 2) — Password tries a new twist to its show this week, when a special game is added at the end. In this, each word the contestants guess means money, rather than points. Ginger Rogers and Orson Bean are tonight's guest players, and they do well with words.

7-30-8 (Channel 2) — Tuesday Weld returns to visit Dottie Gillis tonight, but the script chooses to concentrate on a message rather than on comedy this week. Miss Weld, as the money-mad Thalia Menninger, attempts to lure Dottie away from "the truth and beauty" of education in order to make a fast buck as a salesman. But William Schallert, as Prof. Pomfrit, speaks up for the joys of the intellectual life.

7-30-8:30 (Channel 11) — Arson is crime-of-the-week on The Breedy, with Leslie Nielsen and his boys tracking down one of those fire-for-insurance rings. Stanley Adams makes an evil firebug, and there are other good performances.

9-10 (Channel 2) — The Garry Moore Show has a brief but masterful satirizing psychological warfare tonight. In one of the funniest bits the show has done, Garry and Durward Kirby are opposing soldiers engaged in some hand-to-hand psychological warfare. Tonight's guest stars are Alan King (an old friend with a new routine about dogs) and singer Barbara McNair, a tremendously talented and beautiful girl who gets her first big network break after much local New York TV. Carol Burnett is featured in two comedy sketches.

9-10 (Channel 4-5) — Cain's Hundred has one of those like-father-like-son gangster stories this week, with the father (Simon Oakland) at first encouraging his son's efforts to emulate him, then realizing the error of his ways. Complicating this is another old favorite plot, the old-vs.-new ways of the syndicate.

10-10:12 (Channel 4-5) — Louise O'Brien, Phil Foster and Paula Prentiss are guests on the Tonight Show. (Color)

Repertory Group Prepares Second European Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—The Living Theater, off-Broadway avant-garde repertory group, is getting three awards in the Paris Inter-Ready for its second European national Drama Festival.

The plays to be given include Bertolt Brecht's "In The Jungle" raise $75,000 so that the company can accept invitations for her. "The Connection" and "The an itinerary including Edinburgh, Apple."

Off-Beat Satire on Broadway Called Funny, Stimulating

BY WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—A very funny show has come to the Phoenix Theater.

It is called "Oh Dad. Poor Dad. Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feelin' So Sad" and was written by Arthur Kopit, a 24-year-old member of the dramatic avant-garde.

Jerome Robbins, tackling his reworking of the pet theme of all first straight play assignment actors long primacy in the dance divas. Like Edward Albee, Jack Gelber and Jack Richardson, Kopit is mocking life for being devoid of real meaning.

His slant is dashing and his inventiveness beguiling. A young man—Austin Pendleton—is vaguely trying to wrench free of mom—Miss Van Fleet—and venture into the world of "lecherous and greed" represented by buxom Miss Harris.

The whole thing is done with a mad mixture of expressionistic symbols and savage humor. The props include such weird items as a cat-eating fish and a lively corpse. Designers William and Jenn Eckart deliver the required items with amusing ingenuity.

Kopit wrote "Oh Dad" in 1959 while still a student at Harvard, where it created quite an Ivy League stir. Last summer it was unsuccessfully tried in England. Now at the Phoenix it becomes one of the season's most stimulating off-beat exhibits.

County Democratic Party Chief Resigns Position at Waupaca

Delbert Beno Says Member Of Party Interfered In Job

WAUPACA—The resignation of the present party leadership and would not be a party candidate for office of district attorney if the present county leadership remained in power.

Macklin Backer, Macklin later explained that his reference to the county leadership pertains only to the county chairman, Macklin. He said his lack of confidence in Macklin made it impossible for him to run on the Democratic ticket.

Beno, who declined the nomination, stated that he would "not dignify the propaganda statement by commenting on it." He admitted, however, he did see Beno's immediate superior with the firm for which Beno works, but would make no comment on the meeting.

"Howard Macklin's actions have made it impossible for me to work effectively as an executive of the party while he is district chairman. However, I want to assure you that I am still most interested and will continue to work for both you and the Democratic party," Beno's letter stated.

"Seemed to be Attempt" "More specifically," it continued, "I have been reliably informed that Macklin contacted my immediate superior in the company for which I work in what seemed to be an attempt to have me discharged."

"Statements were made to my supervisor which were grossly untrue but would certainly have cost me my job if they were believed. His efforts were totally unsuccessful but you can understand why I now feel as strongly about him as I do."

"To the best of my knowledge, no other members of the county committee or district executives were aware of his actions," the letter stated.

Beno's letter went on to state that he hoped that there would be a uniting of all split factions in the county and district so members can pull together for common purpose.

Copies of the letter were sent to Gov. Gaylord Nelson, Francis Houdou, Mosinee, and Sen. Robert Dean, Wausau.

The resignation is the second split in the Democratic party in the county since Edward R. Macklin, New London, acting district attorney, broke with the county organization during its annual meeting at Manawa.

Macklin, told the party gathering that he had no confidence in

Farmers Oppose Minimum Wages For Migrants

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A Michigan farm spokesman argued against a proposed 1-per-hour minimum wage for migrant farm labor in a Department of Labor hearing at Michigan State University Monday.

Max C. Henderson of Saginaw, executive secretary of Michigan Field Crops Inc., pleaded economic hardship for Michigan sugar beet growers.

The secretary of agriculture, he said, has "the machinery to control the price of sugar through consumption estimates," and the duty to set wages.

But while the net return for sugar has decreased by 11.7 per cent, wage levels have increased 17.2 per cent, "and the actual wage paid under contract to field workers by growers has increased 28.5 per cent," he said.

It's unwise to judge a stock merely by the way it is acting on the stock market. So before you buy or sell any stock, get all the facts.

A good way to do this is to consult a Thomson & McKinnon account executive. He'll be glad to give you the benefit of his knowledge, and make available to you the facilities of one of America's largest brokerage firms.

On the House America's Next Space Pilot Has Rural Wisconsin Background

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

SPARTA — When the United States hurls its next astronaut into orbital flight some time in April the man on the job will be a "Spartan."

Major Donald K. Slayton, a farm kid of this community whose background is as plain as a plowed furrow and whose promise is as great as tomorrow's. But he is an enigma, too, even to old friends and classmates who discuss him with awe and with wonder.

"Everyone wants to know what kind of a fellow he is," said Thomas Sullivan, a former schoolmate and now proprietor of a main street clothing store here. "But there really aren't many people who know too much about Don."

He was serious and intent in school. He never dated. He didn't go out very much and he was so reserved that even his classmates never got to really figure him out.

I guess you'd have to say he was "an awfully serious student." A classmate, James Rice, now a practicing attorney in Sparta but the senior class president the year Slayton graduated, said this:

"If I ever thought about it—and I didn't—I would never have thought that Don Slayton would become internationally important."

"I think that even now he does not think of this as an adventure. He was not the adventurous type. He was quiet and competent and he worked hard both in school and on the family farm. Not many knew him well at all, and those who did would agree with me. Don was a worker and he tried to do the best that he could at everything he tackled. He was graduated in 1942 and, like everybody else in those times, he knew he was going directly into service. I think he tried to squeeze out every little bit of learning he could get.

"And right now, I'd say that Don doesn't think of orbital flight as an adventure. I'll just guess that he figures it as a part of his job and he's going to do it carefully and well."

"Talk to anyone who knew him at all, and there are few enough of us, and they will tell you just as I do that they figured him to become a farmer."

Earned Good Grades

Slayton, though not a scholar in the accepted sense of the word, earned good grades, both in elementary school and in high school. He was graduated as valedictorian of his eighth grade class, and he was on the honor roll in his senior year at Sparta High School.

Though he was not particularly active in extra-curricular affairs in high school, he won a letter on the track and the boxing team.

He was plain and straight," said Herbert Ballman, proprietor of a local tavern and husband of Slayton's cousin, Yvonne. "He never talked much and he worked awfully hard out there on the farm. He was reserved and industrious and he never fooled around much like other kids his age. If he had a job to do he went and did it and there was nothing colorful about it at all."

"He was very interested in the Future Farmers of America and I thought that after the war he'd come back home and be a farmer. I knew he'd be a good one, but I was sure he'd be a farmer. He didn't seem too much interested in other things."

Slayton, who reached his 38th birthday March 1, was born on the family farm in the unincorporated village of Leon, three miles from this Monroe County city. One of five children, the

To Your Good Health Over-Eating, Drinking Alcohol Causes Hiccups

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: What causes hiccups and is there any way to stop them? I'm writing about a man who has them every day for two or three weeks. They stop for awhile and begin again, but only in daytime. — CED

Hiccups are a sudden spasm, or contracting, of the diaphragm, forcing out a sudden gust of breath. The common causes probably home remedies are no answer at all. (Doubtless the poor man men-much alcohol, but any condition irritating the diaphragm into this rebellious reaction can, thus, cause hiccups.

Such causes can be disorders of the stomach, liver, kidney, brain. Uremia, a retention of wastes by the kidneys, is not too uncommon a cause.

For ordinary hiccups I suppose one popular remedy is as good as another — holding the breath, sipping water, breathing into a paper bag — even tucking the hairs of the ear canal with a cotton applicator.

But for persistent, long lasting and recurrent hiccups, these home remedies are no answer at all. (Doubtless the poor man men-tended in today's letter has positively tried dozens of recommended "hiccups cures" that didn't help.)

Body Chemistry

The man (and part of C.E.D.'s letter) has heart trouble and way, a procedure once widely used in treating tuberculosis, when water-retention in his system rest was our principal means of combating it. Now, of course, we have more aggressive methods, including both drugs and surgery.

I'd strongly suggest that the man's "body chemistry" be checked. The amounts of nitrogen, potassium and sodium may give some useful clues as to possible cause. If these are considerably different from normal, they may well indicate treatments which will aid him in more ways than just stopping the hiccups.

When hiccups are so extreme, it is decisively necessary to seek the cause, which may be quite important in itself. Continuing hiccups are exhausting.

It may at times be necessary to cut or temporarily paralyze the phrenic nerve, which is the main nerve fibre to the diaphragm. It won't interfere with breathing, but it will permit the diaphragm to relax. (It is, by the way, a procedure once widely used in treating tuberculosis, when water-retention in his system rest was our principal means of combating it. Now, of course, we have more aggressive methods, including both drugs and surgery.)

Psychic Factor

The fact that the hiccups come only in daytime may be significant — it could be a reaction to some psychic factor, perhaps a form of hysteria. Psychotherapy may be helpful. Psychiatry, as I've mentioned before, is applicable and useful in a great many emotional problems that are far removed from what we commonly think of as "mental illness."

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 76 and in good health. No headaches or anything at all. I wish you could be a doctor for a few weeks, because you'd realize that this isn't unusual. The occasional absence of the beat is probably due to an "extra systole," which, oddly enough, is a premature beat rather than a "missed" one. This beat, interposed in the regular rhythm, leaves a slightly longer pause afterward so it seems like a "missed" beat.

It happens to some people when they are at rest, and does no harm and usually doesn't mean anything at all.
